Political Meetings This Week

Party Leaders Are Getting Ready For Spring Election Tuesday, April 5

Politics in Sedalia is beginning to "warmup" again over the coming city election to be held Tuesday, April 5. Both Democrat and Republican party chairmen have issued calls for caucuses and for conventions, the latter to be held on Saturday night, March 19. The Republicans will caucus on Thursday night, March 17, while the Democrats will caucus on Friday night, March 18.

The purpose of the city election this spring is to elect five city councilmen and a city attorney. In the first ward the term of Gil Sublett will have been completed this year, and a councilman will be elected to fill that council position. Sublett was killed last July and the office was not filled.

In the third ward two council candidates will seek office on the two tickets. One to fill the unexpired term of Dr. George W. Peak, who resigned last fall, will be for one year, while the other is for a two year term, which place is now held by Ira Knox. Knox, it is reported, is seeking the candidacy to succeed himself.

Other Wards

The second ward elects one councilman. The two-year term of Dick Keenan ends this spring. Keenan, it is said, will seek re-election to succeed himself.

The two-year term of Virgil Herrick, in the fourth ward ends this year and it is reported Mr. Herrick will not seek re-election this year.

The unexpired term of city attorney must also be filled at the election. James E. Durley, who was appointed to fill out the term until the spring election will seek the office through election. The vacancy in this office resulted from the election of William F. Brown to the office of prosecuting attorney and he resigned just before the first of the year as city attorney.

Thursday night the Republicans will meet in precinct caucus, at which time delegates to the city convention will be elected. At the time of the convention on the following Saturday, each ward will nominate their candidate after which the convention will ratify them.

G. O. P. Meeting Places

The caucus meetings will be held as follows:

First ward, first precinct, City Hall; second precinct, Mark Twain school; third precinct, Hubbard High school.

Second ward, first precinct, Engine House No. 1; second precinct, 201 North Washington avenue; third precinct, Jefferson school.

Third ward, first precinct, Washington school; second precinct, Whittier school; third precinct, Washington school; fourth precinct, Central Business college; fifth precinct, Whittier school.

Fourth ward, first precinct, Broadway school; second precinct, Broadway school; third precinct, Probate Court Room, court house; fourth precinct, Horace Mann school; fifth precinct, County Court room, court house.

Convention in the Magistrate court room, (Assembly Room) court house.

Democratic Meeting Places

The Democratic caucus will be in the form of ward meetings and will be held as follows:

First Ward, Mark Twain school.
Second Ward, Jefferson school.
Third Ward, Washington school
Fourth Ward, Broadway school.

The convention will be held in the City Council room at the City Hall on Saturday night.

Complete Plans For Dramatic Contest

The Pettis County Dramatic committee met recently to make final plans for the dramatic contest. Seven rural groups will present plays on March 14 and 15 at Smith-Cotton high school. They are extension club groups of the county.

Monday the 14th, Green Ridge, Smithton, Quisenberry and Stokley will give plays. Tuesday night the 15th, Meet Your Neighbors, Oak Point and LaMonte will give plays.

Special numbers will be given between plays both nights by Sedalia and rural talent.

Miss Myrtle Beard of Central college, Fayette will bring two students with her to judge the plays. Winners will be announced Tuesday night and outstanding characters named at that time.

Defeat Women Suffrage

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Mar. 12—(AP)—A constitutional measure to grant women suffrage was defeated by Congress last night, 23 to 11. Opponents argued the proposal would interfere with peace in homes.

Woodland Hospital Notes

Admitted for tonsillectomy: Harold Drewer, Marshall.

Dismissed: Mrs. G. T. Curtiss and daughter, Houstonia.

'This is Where We Hid'

Four pupils demonstrate how they hid under a desk at Sinai Rural school near Bonner Springs, Kans., when, according to them, three armed men in strange attire entered the building about an hour before the start of morning classes and terrorized them. Under the desk, left to right, are Delbert Coffelt, Jr., 7; Bobby Reynolds, 8; Thomas Craddock, 10; and Gene Reynolds, 7. Law enforcement officers started a manhunt.

Heavy Snow In Sedalia On Saturday

Cold Air Heads Toward Broad Area Of Midcontinent

Snow flurries! The weatherman was putting it mildly. The flurries covered the ground with another blanket of snow with flakes large and on snowstorm proportions. Robins, geese, fishing worms—well, Old Man Winter isn't going to leave until he gets good and ready and apparently he is not ready.

The temperature at 7:00 Saturday morning was 26 degrees. It was damp and chilly. At noon the mercury climbed to 34 but then the snow flurries started. At 3:00 o'clock it had gone down to 29 with .01 inch of moisture and good prospects for more with the snowstorm raging. About 8:00 o'clock it stopped for a short time and the temperature was still holding its own at 29.

At midnight it was still snowing and the temperature was 29.

By The Associated Press

Snow flurries, cold air, and strong northerly winds swept into Montana from Canada last (Saturday) night. It all headed toward a broad area of the midcontinent.

By Sunday night the air mass was expected to overspread Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Kansas, northern and western Oklahoma, eastern Wyoming and Colorado, South and North Dakota, and eastern Montana.

A blustery snowstorm struck central and northern New York, piling up about five inches of snow and whipping the area with winds up to 48 miles an hour.

The snowfall was heaviest in northern New York, where more than 10 inches have fallen since Thursday. Buffalo had nearly 11 inches of snow in 48 hours.

Temperatures To Drop

Temperatures were expected to drop to from zero to five above Saturday night in northwestern North Dakota and northern Montana, to zero in northwestern Minnesota, to 18 in Nebraska and to the middle 20's in Kansas.

The cold air will be accompanied by snows in Nebraska, most of Kansas and eastern Wyoming, and snow flurries in Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and the Colorado mountains.

Quite mild temperatures prevailed in most of the southern states Saturday, and seasonable weather in the west. Rain fell in Washington and northern Oregon.

Entering MoPac Hospital

W. G. Martin, 1301 East Seventh street, will leave this morning to enter the Missouri Pacific for a check-up. He will be accompanied to St. Louis by his daughter, Mrs. E. L. Ringen and Mr. Ringen.

Three Persons Killed At Railroad Crossing

KANSAS CITY, Kas., March 12—(AP)—Three persons were killed at a railroad crossing in suburban Merriam, Kas., tonight when their motor car was struck by an inbound Frisco freight train.

The Johnson county sheriff's office identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Stubblefield, and Mrs. J. S. Griffith, all of Kansas City, Mo. John Griffith, of rural Wyandotte county, son of Mrs. Griffith, said the party had been visiting at his home and was returning to Kansas City, Mo.

Sen. Buries One Son, Plans to Bury Another

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., March 12—(AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark), who witnessed the burial of one son yesterday, made plans here today for the funeral of another.

John M. McClellan Jr., 23-year old second-year law student at the University of Arkansas, died at the Veterans hospital shortly before 9 a. m. today. He was injured in an automobile accident near Fayetteville Wednesday night.

Young McClellan died as his father was flying to Fayetteville in an Airforce C-47 to visit his son in the hospital. The senator was en route from Sheridan, Ark., where reburial services were held for his other son, Max, who died in North Africa in 1943.

Senator McClellan was informed of the death of John Jr., a World War two naval ensign, as he stepped from the plane which landed at the airport here at 9:50 a. m. He was visibly shaken when informed of the news but soon regained his composure and informed his wife and a daughter, who accompanied him on the trip.

Hundreds Of Telegrams

Hundreds of telegrams from McClellan's friends throughout the nation began arriving here soon after his son's death.

In Little Rock, Governor McMath issued this statement:

"This tragedy imposed on the sorrow of senator and Mrs. McClellan has shocked us all and leaves us with speechless grief. We share their burden of despair. The compassion and prayers of all the people are theirs this tragic hour."

In addition to his father, John Jr., is survived by his stepmother, a brother, a sister and a half sister.

Labor Leader Dies

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Frank Morrison, secretary emeritus of the American Federation of Labor, died tonight at the age of 89.

He had been ill since mid-January.

A printer who once studied to be a lawyer, he served as secretary of the AFL for 43 years.

He saw it grow from an organization of 250,000 members until it passed the 4,000,000 (M) figure.

Spiz Girls Believe in Making Use of Rummage Garments

To have snow in March is disconcerting enough in itself, but there were costumes on the streets of Sedalia Saturday afternoon, to make a person look more than slightly amazed.

The Spiz girls of the Smith-Cotton high school pep club were putting on a rummage sale. You've heard the old business adage of using your own merchandise. They were really using it! One girl had on an orange sheer dress over blue jeans, a charming pink hat banded in navy blue, blue "bobby sox" and brown leather pumps. Another was attired in a tight fitting bathing suit, under which she wore brown slacks. Her green velvet hat was worn over a multi-colored bandana and she carried a little girl's red purse.

Charming

They very solemnly munched on ice cream and would saunter up to some well dressed man or woman and say, "My, but your clothes look awful, look like you've been to a rummage sale or something! Why don't you come to our place and let us fit you up in some decent things?"

The rummage sale was held at the Sedalia Implement company and the girl's came out with a net profit of $52.57. The money will be used to finance the annual Spiz banquet and formal dance for members and their escorts. The sponsors of the Spiz club are Miss Lois Gorden and Miss Carlida Breckenridge.

Over 55,000 Feel Impact of Lewis' Order

Railroad Lay Off Workers During Mine Shutdown

By The Associated Press

More than 55,000 railroad workers felt the impact Saturday of John L. Lewis' order directing his United Mine Workers to stay out of the nation's coal pits for the next two weeks.

Lewis has told his 400,000 miners to stay away from the mines starting Monday as a protest against President Truman's appointment James Boyd as bureau of mines director.

Lewis' surprise move brought a quick reaction from at least five railroads engaged in carrying the coal.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced it would furlough 20,000 employes for the duration of the mine shutdown. Other roads that announced layoffs resulting from the mine situation include the Chesapeake & Ohio, 15,000, Norfolk & Western, 4,500; Louisville & Nashville, 1,500; and the New York Central, 600.

Thousands To Feel Pinch

Thousands of other workers in allied industries were expected to feel the pinch as the work stoppage progressed.

Operations of the Railway Express Agency were down to a mere trickle in the New York City area where agency officials announced they would lay off 9,000 workers as a result of a slowdown.

Thousands already are idle in a wage and hour dispute between the agency and the AFL Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks union. The slowdown started Tuesday as a protest against what union spokesmen described as "stalling" by the company in negotiations.

The union is demanding a 40-hour, five-day week and a wage boost of 25 cents an hour. The workers presently are employed 44 hours a week and earn from $1.32 to $1.34 an hour.

Conferences In Chicago

In Chicago conferences on an agreement on a five day week for 1,000,000 (M) non-operating railroad workers proceeded. There was no indication of how soon a written agreement might be expected.

In Washington, the CIO, through its weekly newspaper, the CIO news, called for "substantial" fourth round wage increases, a slash in corporation profits, and an expanded security program for workers.

"If the country fails to take these corrective steps, a serious depression condition is almost certain to develop," the labor publication said.

Name Missouri Lawyer in Case

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Fowler Hamilton, New York attorney and former Missourian, today was named counsel for Valentine Gubitchev, Russian engineer accused of espionage.

Federal Judge Simon H. Rifkind appointed Hamilton after Gubitchev declined counsel and claimed diplomatic immunity at his arraignment yesterday.

Gubitchev and Judith Coplon, 27-year old employe of the U. S. department of justice, were arrested last week by FBI agents.

They were indicted by a special spy-probing grand jury, accused of conspiring to pass to a "foreign power" United States defense and intelligence data.

After his appointment, Hamilton conferred for nearly two hours with Gubitchev. At the conclusion of the meeting, the attorney said the Russian had "not yet made a decision whether or not he is going to accept my assignment as his counselor."

Pope Enters Seventh Year

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY, March 12—(AP)—Pope Pius XII entered the eleventh year of his reign today with renewed pledge from the faithful to strengthen his hand against world communism.

Cardinals, prelates, priests and diplomats assigned to the Holy See gathered in the great Sistine chapel of St. Peter's for a solemn Pontifical mass marking the tenth anniversary of the coronation.

Cries of "Viva Il Papa!"—long live the Pope—rang through the chambers as the pontiff was borne on his gestatorial chair, the portable throne, to the Sistine chapel for the mass. The frail but dynamic spiritual leader of the world's hundreds of millions of Roman Catholics lifted his hand in benediction.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Admitted for medical treatment: Mrs. Lutie Baker, Sedalia, Star Route; Allen Glidewell, LaMonte and Mrs. John Hardey, of Otterville.

Admitted for medical treatment and dismissed: Henry Waller, 2122 East Broadway.

Dismissed: Ollie Hardin, Florence; Mrs. Joseph Murphy, 402 East Thirteenth street; Richard Kirtley, 3217 Lockridge, Kansas City; G. H. Bagby, Route 2, Green Ridge; Mrs. Norman Hink, Cole Camp and Mrs. Robert L. Ream and daughter, 816 West Third street.

King George VI Operated On

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—A grayhaired Scottish surgeon operated on King George VI today in the hope of relieving his serious leg ailment.

The nine royal doctors who gathered around an operating table set up in a Buckingham palace bedroom reported later the king's condition was "entirely satisfactory."

A later bulletin tonight said the king "had a restful day" and his recovery from the operation is "proceeding smoothly."

The operation was brief, but delicate.

The surgeon, Prof. James R. Learmonth, severed a nerve near the spine which controls the tension of the main artery in the king's right leg.

For five months King George has suffered from faulty blood circulation in the legs that might have caused gangrene and loss of the feet.

Third Concert Of Season for The Symphony

Will Be Presented This Afternoon At S-C High School

This afternoon at 3:15 o'clock the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra, with Abe Rosenthal conducting, will present the third concert of the season at Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Highlighting this concert will be the appearance of the Kansas City Conservatory String Quartet, which has been so enthusiastically received by Kansas City audiences.

February 22 the Kansas City Conservatory of Music presented the group in concert in Atkins Auditorium at the Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City.

"The quartet established once again that it plays with musical feeling, smooth and sympathetic blending of parts and a sound conception of musical values." (Kansas City Times).

Quartet Members

Members of the quartet, now in its second season, are Thurston Johnson, concertmaster of the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra, first violin; Virginia Fisher, second violin; Dr. Francis Buebendorf, viola; and Catherine Farley, cello.

The group has chosen a mixed group program, ranging from the traditional "Quartet, No. 4 in E Minor" by Mendelssohn to rhapsodic "Rustic Dance" by Ernest Bloch, contemporary Swedish composer.

Consistent with his record of building programs with a wide popular appeal, Mr. Rosenthal has included the Spialek arrangement of George Gershwin's melodies from the folk-opera, "Porgy and Bess."

The Program:

1. Symphony in G. Minor, Mozart; Allegro Molto, (First Movement).

2. Quartet No. 4 in E. Minor, Mendelssohn; Allegro assai appassionato; Scherzo, Andante, Presto Agitato.
String Quartet.

3. Porgy and Bess (Arr. by Hans Spialek; George Gershwin.

Intermission

4. Tschaikowsky Suite; March of the Tin Soldiers, Sweet Dreams, Humoresque, Longing, Kamarinskaja (Russian Dance).

5. Andante, Franz Schubert; The Mill, Joseph Joachim Raff; Pavanne and Galliard, William Byrd, Rustic Dance, Ernest Bloch, String Quartet.

6. Rienzi Overture, R. Wagner.

Warrensburg Players

Again, as for the first two concerts, the orchestra will be augmented by musicians from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg and L. A. Hansen, Director of Music at Missouri Valley College at Marshall, Missouri.

The final rehearsal for this concert is called for 2:00 o'clock this afternoon.

Record Extra Tax, Penalties

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—A record total of $2,235,822,110 in extra taxes and penalties was collected by the Internal Revenue Bureau in 1948, the treasury reported today.

Criminal prosecutions for tax evasion reached a new high with 338 persons convicted and fined $1,501,000 in addition to drawing prison terms. They got nicked, too, for the evaded taxes, interest and penalties.

Only eight people who went to trial on tax evasion cases were acquitted.

Some 3,184 investigations into "fra'd cases," some of which will go to trial later, accounted for $237,878,103 of the total extra collections. Indictments were obtained against 424 persons.

Most of the extra tax collections, however, "resulted from the correction of mistakes," Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said.

Nigh. Club Burns

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 12—(AP)—Flames today destroyed the Red Clock night club near here and the owner, Mrs. Fannie Curry, told investigators she believed the blaze was of incendiary origin.

Sheriff C. A. Jenkins assigned two deputies, Pete Murphy and Bob Delaney, to make the investigation. Murphy said Mrs. Curry told them she believed the blaze was set, but said she did not elaborate on her statement.

Plot to Learn Secrets of City Officials

New York Mayor Exposes Plan to Tap Office Wires

By Joe Hall

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—A spectacular plot to learn secrets of city officials in New York and other cities by tapping their telephone wires was reported today by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

One of two men taken into custody coolly duped his captors at City Hall and escaped through a window while they thought he was in a rest room.

Despite a police net around all exits from Manhattan and the activities of scores of detectives, he remained free many hours later.

The other man, allegedly hired to operate the wire taps, remained in custody.

City Hall authorities said he was talking freely, making "startling revelations, naming prominent names and organizations in public and business affairs."

Political Dynamite

There was potential political dynamite in the bizarre affair.

Clendenin J. Ryan, former aide to the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and a bitter political foe of O'Dwyer, was asked by district attorney's officials conducting the investigation to appear for questioning. He said he would not do so until Monday.

However, John G. Broady, an attorney, finally accepted a subpoena and went to City Hall to be quizzed. He told newsmen he had been gathering information for Clendenin Ryan about city government.

Broady was named by Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien as the attorney who hired the two men for the wiretapping.

Kenneth Ryan, 45-year-old retired city detective and wiretapping expert, was the man who leaped from the City Hall window.

Make Admission

O'Dwyer announced early in the morning Ryan had admitted he was hired by an attorney to make the wiretaps on the phones of the mayor himself and about 75 subordinate officials.

Police said this attorney also hired Edward Jones, former treasury department agent, the man who allegedly was telling them the story involving prominent persons.

The mayor said the wire taps also were to be placed on lines of officials in Chicago and Detroit.

Kenneth Ryan made his break from City Hall about 7 a. m. A half hour later, he was reported to have been seen several miles north on west 179th street in Manhattan boarding a taxicab which took him across the George Washington bridge to New Jersey.

Making Search

New York police quickly asked New Jersey authorities to watch the Allamuchy, N. J., home of Clendenin J. Ryan, a bitter political foe of O'Dwyer.

"It is believed that (Kenneth) Ryan headed for the home of (Clendenin) Ryan to seek financial aid," a City Hall spokesman said.

But Clendenin Ryan, reached at his Panther Ledge farm in Allamuchy, declared he did not know the former detective and added: "He's not here."

Clendenin Ryan is a grandson of Thomas Fortune Ryan, the wealthy financier. The younger Ryan announced Thursday establishment of the Good Government Foundation to "expose corruption in public office everywhere."

He said it would function strongly in New York City and eventually would operate throughout the country. He said he was underwriting it for $500,000.

Making Fight On O'Dwyer

Clendenin Ryan also has been a leader in a budding campaign to defeat O'Dwyer for a second term this fall. The mayor has not announced officially he will run again but he is expected to do so.

On Wednesday Clendenin Ryan went to City Hall with a series of questions in a letter which were designed to embarrass the mayor. One asked if Frank Costelly, gambling figure, is "the real boss of New York City."

The mayor did not see his caller and commented only, "another crackpot."

Yesterday Ryan went back to City Hall, this time to nail on a door a copy of a 1945 grand jury presentment which criticized O'Dwyer's actions as Brooklyn district attorney.

Police Call to Help Woman Locked Outside

Late Friday night police were called upon to "break-in" a local residence—not for robbery but because the door had slammed and the key was inside. Mrs. Marion Deaton, 515 Dal-Whi-Mo court, had opened her door, and her key was inside, when suddenly it blew shut locking her out.

After a call to the police headquarters Officers Gamber and Lutgen went to the residence and after trying several windows, and checking for a way to get in found the only logical entrance was the breaking of a small glass, reaching inside and turning the lock.

Such an emergency call to help distressed persons was only one of many received by the police and fire departments.

News Briefs

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Mar. 12—(AP)—Iceland has been invited to participate in Washington talks on the proposed North Atlantic pact and has accepted.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—High U. S. officials told Denmark's foreign minister today that the Atlantic treaty would provide a "framework" to solve the long-pending problem of American air bases on Greenland.

American strategists are known to believe that if American bases in Greenland, Iceland and the Azores—or use of them—can be arranged under the pact it will permanently strengthen defenses of the entire Atlantic area.

But today's talk between state department leaders and Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen provided the first definite information that American officials do in fact feel the treaty will greatly ease the base solution.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—The Navy has a new gadget which tells what a rocket "sees" in the upper regions above the earth.

It can transmit 60 messages at once to a control point on the ground, recording what is happening in and around the missile. It can describe the trajectory path of the rocket, its speed, temperatures, cosmic radiation and supply a multitude of technical data.

ROME, March 12—(AP)—Communist-led crowds stormed through downtown Rome for a wild half hour tonight, shouting protests against Italy's adherence to the Atlantic pact.

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—Britain ordered reinforcements today to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan's tiny Red sea port. Five miles away, across the Gulf of Aqaba, Jewish armored columns are in possession of the Negev's short Red sea coastline.

Robert E. Lee Beat Truman Steamboat

ST. LOUIS, March 12—(AP)—The ghost of the storied old Mississippi river steamboat Robert E. Lee came in ahead of the modern diesel towboat Harry Truman today, and a speed record of 79 years standing remained in the books.

On the New Orleans-to-St. Louis run, the Truman lagged by one hour and 17 minutes. The Lee record is three days, 18 hours and 14 minutes.

There were differences. The Lee had no cargo and was stripped down for its race with the Natchez. The Truman pushed a barge loaded with 1,100 tons.

The skipper of the Truman, Capt. Willis (Cannonball) Smith, blamed the failure on a rudder breakdown that cost him two hours and 14 minutes the first night out.

Another Airlift Record

BERLIN, March 12.—(AP)—The British-American airlift racked up another record tonight. By hauling 7,043 tons of supplies into Berlin over the Soviet blockade in the last 24 hours, airlift pilots piled up a total of 45,683 tons for the week. The old weekly record of 44,612 tons was set last month.

Hopeful of Filibuster Settlement

Leaders of Both Sides Believe an Agreement May Be Reached by Monday

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—President Truman tonight signalled for a settlement of the Senate filibuster. The 12-day talkathon may be at an end.

With his legislative program at an absolute standstill in the Senate, Mr. Truman gave his blessing to a conference called for Sunday to work out a compromise.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Leaders on both sides said tonight the senate filibuster may be settled by Monday.

The senate immediately recessed at 7:51 p. m., (EST), after a Saturday session which lasted nearly eight hours.

Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois told the senate he believes there is "an opportunity to bring about a settlement" over the week end.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), a leader among the filibustering southerners told a reporter he, too, was "pretty hopeful" of a compromise.

Earlier Lucas has threatened 'round-the-clock sessions beginning Monday in an effort to break the two weeks talkathon.

Throughout the day, Lucas, Vice President Barkley and other administration figures had been trying to work out an acceptable formula for closing the long fight.

Southerners Active

Meanwhile Senator Eastland (D.-Miss.) kept the ball rolling for the southerners who are out to smash an attempt to alter the rules against unlimited debate with only a handful of senators in the chamber, he held the floor for five and a half hours talking against the proposed change in rules sponsored by the administration, and some Republicans.

The proposed new rule would allow the senate to cut off debate at any time by a two-thirds vote. Southerners see in it an attempt to put across President Truman's civil rights program.

On Lucas' motion, the senate recessed until noon Monday.

While he said he could not definitely promise a compromise could be reached over Sunday, he appeared very hopeful.

No Hint of Formula

He gave no hint of the nature of the formula.

However, Byrd said the southerners were demanding two assurances:

First, that there continue to be unlimited debate upon a motion to take up any change in senate rules. (That is what is going on now.)

Second, that no compromise can be used later to obtain a gag rule through a "bare majority of the senate as advocated by President Truman."

Informal Conferences

Frequent informal conferences between leaders of the southern Democrats, regular Democratic leaders and Republican leader Wherry of Nebraska indicated that strenuous efforts were under way to compromise and avoid the wearing continuous sessions.

Turning his duties as presiding officer over to a member, Barkley held separate huddles in his office with Senator Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the filibustering southerners, and Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois, representing the administration.

The role of peacemaker was a familiar one to Barkley, who served nearly 22 years in the Senate before taking the oath as vice president last January.

Situation Deadlocked

The parliamentary situation was fully deadlocked, the administration soundly licked last night in trying to vote down the filibuster. Senators from both parties were urging a compromise so business could proceed. The session's biggest bills were piling up at the senate's door.

Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader, suggested that both sides hold an informal Sunday conference to try to work out a solution.

Lucas indicated later that such a meeting may be held. He told the senate it will know by Monday "if anything can be worked out."

Ceiling Collapsed

ST. LOUIS, March 12—(AP)—About 75 diners were routed from their tables during the dinner hour tonight when a large section of ceiling collapsed in the Colonial Tearoom, 6271 Delmar Blvd.

No one was injured, but some were liberally sprinkled with falling bits of plaster. Damage to the building and furnishings was estimated at $1000.

The Weather

Snow in north and central, and rain or snow in extreme south portion Sunday, ending Sunday night; little change in temperatures; Monday partly cloudy and rather cold; high Sunday 34 northwest to 40 in southeast.

Hunt on For Million and Half Said Buried by Jesse James

ZANESVILLE, O., March 12—(AP)—Four men with a mine detector began hunting today for $1,500,000 (M) in treasure supposed to have been buried by Jesse James.

Secrecy shrouded much of the hunt, but the men reported they already had found a metal chest in old Black Log cemetery.

This drama was being played in Zane Grey's old home town. Principal characters:

Roscoe James of Buffalo, Colo., who says he is a nephew of the famed outlaw of an earlier day.

John Trammel, who says he is 109 years old and that he rode stage coaches in Ohio when Jesse was riding high. Trammel also says he is a former slave.

James Cooper, who says he is an authority on Jesse James and part Indian.

Lee Howk of Van Nuys, Calif., who says he is a private investigator for the James family.

Howk supports a legend that Jesse James still is living. He said James is in Oklahoma and someone else was killed in 1882.

Spokesman Howk said Jesse lived in the Zanesville area for some time in the early 1880's. He said the bandit did everything from selling lightning rods to subscriptions for a Zanesville newspaper.

The search in Black Log cemetery was second choice. The four men first wanted to dig on the farm of Ray Crozier, Muskingum county deputy clerk of courts. His farm is three miles north.

Crozier however, decided that if any gold digging was done on his farm, he would do it himself.

The operations scene now has shifted to an undisclosed location.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

ED. NOTE: The Brass Ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round today goes to the vice-president of the United States, Alben Barkley.)

WASHINGTON—Vice President Barkley is a kindly, much-loved Kentucky gentleman, not given to feuds. However, he is having a slight altercation with Capitol Architect David Lynn. Mr. Lynn wants Barkley to move out of the traditional vice-president's office into more modern quarters, but the vice-president refuses to budge. He is in love with the ancient but historical room for one quite special reason.

Hanging in the vice-president's room are two magnificent chandeliers, made of highly polished glass prisms and brought to this country by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson acquired them when serving as ambassador to France, later presented them to the U. S. government and for many years they hung in the White House. Then Teddy Roosevelt objected.

The Rough Rider president couldn't stand the chandeliers because they were so delicately balanced that they tinkled when anyone walked across the floor. So they were banished to the vice-president's office on Capitol Hill, where sentimental Alben Barkley likes them and wants to keep them in his office.

Alben is also having another minor row with the President of the United States, the secretary of the treasury and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. They are determined that the vice-president have either a Secret Service man or an FBI man to protect him on his many trips around the U.S.A.

But Barkley says no.

"It isn't that I'm going to do anything I'm ashamed of," he explains, a little plaintively, "but I value my freedom more than anything else in the world. I don't think anyone is going to attack me. Besides, if anyone really wanted to get me, one Secret Service man wouldn't be much good anyhow."

Modifying Influence

Today Alben Barkley is the most important balance wheel in the government, and the most effective modifying influence on his chief in the White House. If Barkley had had an opportunity to be with the president before or during his unfortunate remark about a majority vote on stopping filibusters, the Senate would not have snarled itself up in southern oratory. Nothing could have infuriated southern senators more than Truman's intemperate remark and Barkley, knowing this, would have given his eyeteeth to have sidetracked it.

No matter what Mr. Truman does, however his vice-president remains 100 per cent loyal. Barkley has even explained away Truman's reported snub of governors Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Herman Talmadge of witnessed the fact that Truman Georgia when scores of newsmen did not raise his hat to salute these two Dixiecrats.

Barkley loyally maintains that Truman did lift his hat to governor Thurmond, while, in the case of Governor Talmadge, Barkley points out that the navy had asked the president to pass judgement on the different groups of naval cadets as they marched by, and the president had turned to a naval officer to give his appraisal of the cadets just as Governor Talmadge passed by.

"Later that day," Barkley defends his chief," the president and I went down to the National Gallery of Art where both Governor and Mrs. Thurmond and Governor and Mrs. Talmadge were greeted cordially by both the president and me, and they stopped and chatted with us for a moment in a very pleasant way. If either had felt they had been deliberately slighted during the parade, I am quite sure they would have shown some sign of it."

The vice-president himself has been most meticulous about preserving the Kentucky spirit of hospitality with all Dixiecrats, and his failure to attend the mayors conference in Columbia, S. C., was because he was tied up in the Senate.

Jeffersonian Authority

It is rare that vice-presidents are related. However, Barkley was a second cousin of Vice-President Adlai Stevenson, who served under Grover Cleveland, which also makes Barkley the third cousin of Illinois' new governor, Adlai Stevenson.

Barkley has been getting around the country quite a bit lately—though Senate leaders wish he would spend more time acting as balance wheel at the president's elbow. Reason for Barkley's trips is that he has become the Democratic party's favorite speaker at Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners.

This also is close to Barkley's heart, for he is a walking encyclopedia on Jefferson, having studied his life intently while a student at the University of Virginia. When the vice-president speaks on Jefferson he seldom reads a manuscript, partly because his eyes are not good, but also because it is relatively easy for him to draw from his bottomless vat of knowledge on Jefferson.

Sees Need of Peoples' Friendship

No man in the Truman administration has traveled more widely than the vice-president. He has visited almost every country in the world, and still has a photo of himself sawing wood with some Russian peasants prior to World War II.

Barkley has visited most of the Iron Curtain countries, including Bulgaria, Finland and Albania. He is a great believer in people-to-people friendship, and has been pressuring the State Department to break through the Iron Curtain and establish contacts with the people behind. That, reasons Barkley, is the only safe and sure way to prevent war.

One thing the vice-president collects on his travels is rare walking sticks. He also has a secret passion for antique figurines, and picked up quite a few at bargain prices in Germany after the war.

Famed Storyteller

Probably Barkley will go down in history, however, as having a greater collection of rare stories than any man in this decade. The vice-president, despite his wide travels, does not speak any foreign language, but here is a story he told on himself the other day to State Senator George Luckey, in California:

"I have always been disturbed on my travels abroad by my inability to speak any foreign languages," said the vice-president. "Recently I was in Rome where I heard an English member of Parliament making a magnificent speech which he started in English, then switched to French and finally finished in Italian.

"When the Englishman finished speaking I turned to Italy's Foreign Minister Sforza and expressed my admiration for my British colleague's ability.

"'It is better to be able to think well in one language,' Sforza replied, 'than to make a fool of yourself in six.'"

Former Nazi Up For Citizenship

On Saturday, March, 12, the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization will quietly bring a significant case before U. S. Judge William H. Atwell in Dallas. It is the case of a former member of the Nazi party in the United States, Heinrich F. G. H. Molsen, who now seeks to become an American citizen.

Molsen has long lived in the United States, and was interned here during the war but the significant thing about him is that when the U. S. Army took over Germany and got access to Nazi records, they found Molsen's name listed as an "American member" of the Nazi party. Though living in the United States, Molsen apparently had kept up his ties with Hitler.

Once before, in 1946, Molsen sought to become naturalized but, due to protests from the American Legion, his petition for citizenship was continued.

This time, the Bureau of Immigration and naturalization in Philadelphia seems to be in favor of naturalization and has sent word to its field offices that no comment can be made to the press without clearing the matter with the central office. The bureau bases its OK of Molsen on the belief that membership in the Nazi party cannot continue for more than ten years and the last record found of Molen's membership was 1936. This would make his membership expire in 1945. A letter to this general effect has been sent by the Immigration Bureau to federal officials in Dallas.

Molsen was interned as an alien enemy during most of the war, but recently he gave a contribution of several thousand dollars to the Park Cities YMCA in Dallas and local opinion for and against his naturalization is divided.

Club Members Prepare Food

The Longwood Extension club met at the home of Mrs. Clay Jones with Miss Lillis Jones assisting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Carl Raines.

The club song was led by Mrs. Raymond Hurt and the club collect was read by Mrs Carl Raines.

The devotionals were by Mrs. John Boles.

Roll call was answered with a new practice plan to use in the garden this year.

The club voted to give $10.00 to the Red Cross.

Food Leaders Talk

Food leaders, Mrs. Raymond Hurt and Mrs. Tom Harvey told the club of a recent meeting they attended and of the different foods prepared and served. They then prepared the dishes which were later served. While the food baked Mrs. John Greer, sewing leader, told of the meeting she attended on restyling old dresses to 1949 styles, and told of the to 1949 styles, and how to make shoulder pads, bows and collars. Mrs. Russell Evans modeled one she had made, using two dresses to make one.

Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich read a letter on the proper fertilizer for soil.

A food quiz was contested on "true or false" home canned foods.

A luncheon was served by the hostess at the noon hour and the hostess was presented with a hostess gift from the club.

The April meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Russell Evans.

Sun And Shade Present Problems to Gardner

Floribunda roses planted in front of evergreens in a foundation planting add bright spots of color all summer long. The Floribundas planted here are Betty Prior, World's Fair, Pink Bountiful, Summer Snow and Goldilocks. The last is an All-American Rose Selection.

By Henry L. Free
Written for NEA Service

The home gardener, even though he has the green thumb, frequently meets problems that defy his efforts to find the answer. There may be shaded areas where nothing seems to thrive; while on the other hand the flower bed receives so much sun that the soil seems always hot and dry; or some object needs screening if one is to really enjoy the garden.

Shade presents a serious problem, but the difficulty can be overcome to a marked degree if the soil is built up and the right plants used. Where there are tree roots, the solution of the problem must include deep feeding of the soil to satisfy the demands of the tree. The easiest way is to use groundcover plants like periwinkle, bugleweed or creeping ceronica.

However, for gardeners who want variety we must add spring-blooming bulbs such as narcissus and crocus, with ferns and wild flowers to add interest and color.

Periwinkle, vinca minor, is a hardy trailing evergreen with lilac-blue, dark purple or white flowers appearing in spring and intermittently throughout the summer. It must not be confused with the Madagascar periwinkle, a tender perennial that is grown outdoors in cool climates as an annual, growing a foot and more in height and covered with small white or rosy purple flowers.

The Madagascar periwinkle is recommended for porch boxes in both sun and shade. Bubleweed (ajuga genevensis,) with bronzy-green foliage and white, blue or purplish flowers, is an ideal plant for shady places. Growing eight to 15 inches tall, bugleweed blooms in May and June, and occasionally again in autum. Creeping veronica is a small creeping perennial with shiny mossy leaves and blue or pink flowers.

The following wild flowers are recommended for the shady place because they are both easy and sure to grow: Common blue violet blooming from April to June; foam flower, lacy white flowers in May and heart-shaped leaves that last the year round; wild columbine, red and yellow blossoms in late spring, easy to raise from seed; crested dwarf isir cristata, bear a profusion of blue or white flowers with a white and yellow crest in early spring; Dutchman's breeches, with attractive feathery foliage and small creamy white pantaloon-like flowers; Greek valerian, fern-like foliage and clusters of light-blue flowers appearing on foot-long stems in late spring.

Porch and window boxes solve the problem for the homeowner lacking garden space or time to devote to gardening.

Despite the great ballyhoo that the tuberous begonia is a "shade-loving plant," I have evidence to the contrary. In my garden it does best where it receives morning sunlight and afternoon shade. However, it is the most colorful of all plants when grown in partial shade an given a well-drained humusy soil and ample moisture.

Since plants cannot live without sunlight, their failure to thrive can invariably be attributed to poor soil and lack of moisture and not to too much sun. Good soil is a mixture of sand, clay and organic matter, with emphasis on the latter. Without organic matter or humus, a sandy soil quickly loses its moisture, while clay soil without humus is so compact that moisture cannot enter. Good soils have the ability to absorb and hold both moisture and fertilizer for the use of the plants. The gardener must bear in mind that fertilizer cannot be absorbed by the roots until it is in solution. Soil should not be worked when it is wet and after a rain the crust should be broken up. A mulch of peat moss or grass clippings will prevent crusting and keep down weeds.

Portulacas, California poppies, marigolds and zinnias are recommended where improvement of a poor soil is impossible and flowers must be attempted. These four annuals are native of countries where the soil is hot and dry and invariably lacking in humus. Portulaca, or rose moss, is a succulent fleshy, low-growing plant with bright purple, yellow or white, single or double flowers that open in the sun. Most attractive when planted between the joints of a paved terrace and as an edging for the flower border.

The new chrysanthemum-flowered sunflowers make beautiful fast-growing plants for use as screens for backgrounds. Their golden-yellow double flowers, six to eight inches across on seven-foot stem, add much life to the garden. There is also a lower-growing variety with bright-red and crimson flowers.

Annual vines offer a quick screen with the aid of a fence, wall or trellis, and like most other annuals do best in full sun and in a better-than-average soil. Everyone knows of the morning glories, but few folks have ever enjoyed the beauties of the cup-an-saucer vine (cobaea scandeus.) This rapid and graceful grower (up to 25 feet or more) climbs by leaf tendils and soon covers the fence or trellis. The shape of the large violet-colored flowers suggests the common name. If planted in a sholtered corner they flower for some time after the early frosts. The hyacinth bean and scarlet runner bean are two additional fast-growing annual vines worthy of attention.

Porch and window boxes solve the problem for the home owner lacking garden space or the time to indulge in a garden. For best results the boxes should be a foot wide ond nine inches in depth. The bottoms should be provided with a few drain holes, and if not suspended or hung on brackets, should have some blocks below to allow passage of air and thus prevent rotting of the bottom. Use a good rich soil composed of equal parts of loam, humus and sand.

Boxes in the sun permit a greater range of flowers from which to choose. A couple of hanging vines and an accent plant or two add variety and grace to the box. On the whole there are no plants equal to the glorious petunias and geraniums. Both provide blooms until the frost kills them in autumn. Dracena and pandanus are excellent accent plants and thrive in sun or semi-shade.

His first wife was May Winston, of LaMonte, who died about 38 years ago at Pryor, Okla.

Threaten to Lynch Three U. S. Sailors

HAVANA, Cuba, March 12—(AP) An enraged Cuban crowd threatened to lynch three drunken U. S. sailors last night after watching them desecrate the statute of the Cuban national hero by indecent acts.

The U. S. ambassador apologized today, ending a threatened international incident, and Cuban students called off plans for a "national day of mourning" at the affront to the statute.

All Havana was aroused.

'Anybody Can Paint' Says Todd Karns, and He Does

HOLLYWOOD, March 12—(AP)—You never have painted a picture and your criticism of art is limited to "I like it" or "I don't like it."

Suddenly, for lack of something better to do, you take up paints and brushes and paint a picture. It sells on sight and you are a painter.

This sounds a little like the so-I-sat-down-at-the-piano ads. If you do not believe this story of the unusual experience of Todd Karns, I will make an affidavit that it is true and so will his wife and so will his pa, Roscoe Karns, the movie actor. Todd Karns never painted a picture in all of his 27 years until January of 1948. He has been painting them — and selling them — ever since.

Today his customers include Frank Sinatra and Garry Moore and Sherry's cafe on the Sunset strip and many others who can afford to order what they'd like for their offices and living rooms.

Todd is a primitive, that is, his style is strictly his own and bears no resemblance to anything ever heard in an art class or put in a book. His groups of people for example, look like what they're supposed to, but on close examination they resemble leaning hairpins.

Best He Could Do

"That's the best I can do with people," explains Todd simply.

His trees lean, too, like there was always a high wind and the leaves usually come out like little egg-shaped dabs. But you know they're trees.

Equally unorthodox is Todd's way of starting a picture. He puts in the sky and the clouds or the roofs first and then works down to the foreground.

A long-time artist told Todd he must be nuts for working that way.

This is the way it started: Todd's daughter, Tina, who is two, got a box of 10-cent store water colors a year ago Christmas. Todd was an actor, before and after a stretch in the army, but late in 1947 things went from bad to absolutely no acting work at all. He was worried about what to do, and while he was worrying one day he saw the paint box and decided to pass a little time.

One-A-Day Production

He finished a picture in a few hours and his wife thought it was pretty good and so did the elder Karns. Todd painted two more. Then he got some heavy molding and made frames and took the three to a buyer for a Los Angeles store. After one look she said, "I'll take them. Twelve-fifty each. Bring me some more." Todd went into a one-a-day production.

For the last several months, Todd's income from painting has averaged $500 a month. An agent, seeing so many Karns pictures around town, offered him $6 each sight unseen for unframe works. The trouble was, the agent wanted 50 pictures a week.

Todd's work has a lot of color and freshness and enthusiasm. Sometimes he sketches or photographs what he wants to reproduce, but chiefly he uses his imagination, because much of what he paints he never has seen. His series of 18 famous restaurants on the walls of Sherry's, which catch your eye when you enter, were done from memory and imagination.

Gives Room a Lift

There 18 pictures got Todd most of his commissions. Because they are exciting and certainly different, nearly everyone wants one. Interior decorators say they can fit them into most rooms and they add that Todd's stuff gives a room, and the people in it, a lift.

One art patron is having Todd reproduce, in his own style, some historical lithographs. Just about his only concession to the conventional was to make the flagpoles straight.

Todd insists that if he can paint, anybody can. He is surprised at what has happened and fascinated by the outcome.

"The thing to do is not to copy or try to be too exact," he advises would-be-artists. "Just put on the colors and if the result pleases you, you've done a good job."

He recalled that with his first few pictures he didn't know he was to dampen the areas to be colored. He put the paint on dry paper.

"If I can overcome as many handicaps as that essential indicates I had, then you can be a painter, too."

Body Is Found In Lake Michigan

CHICAGO, March 12—(AP)—The body of Daniel H. Heekin, Jr., 34, missing son of a wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer, was found Friday in Lake Michigan.

The body was identified by young Heekin's brother-in-law, Edward Berghausen, 28, of Bellsaw place, Cincinnati.

Coroner A. L. Brodie theorized that Heekin, "might have been slugged, poisoned or drowned." Brodie ordered an autopsy and said: "I am not completely satisfied with the case."

Heekin had been making $375 a month in his job with a mail order house but was said to have an independent income of $40,000 in securities and cash in his name.

Heekin had been missing since Feb. 25. The body was found this afternoon by two youths walking along the lake about two miles from Heekin's south side home.

Young Heekin, a division manager for Sears Roebuck and company, was last seen when he drove up to his apartment house and waved to a neighbor. But his wife said he never entered the house.

A widespread search started His father, head of the Heekin can company, offered a $1,000 for information on his whereabouts only today.

Marion To Miss Few Exhibitions

ST. PETERSBURG Fla., March 11—(AP)—Shortstop Marty Marion, noted for his many and varied ailments as well as his fine fielding, will be sidelined tomorrow when the St. Louis Cardinals open their spring exhibition schedule against the New York Yankees.

This time it's a boil on one of his toes. The doctor said the Cardinal infielder will have to miss a few exhibition games. Second baseman Red Schoendienst and Tommy Glaviano will divide the shortstop assignment. Solly Hemus, still listed on the roster of Houston of the Texas League, will fill in for Schoendienst at second.

French Hero of Two Wars Dies

Gen. Henri Giraud Was Victim Of Food Poisoning

PARIS, March 12— (AP) —Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, 70, French hero of two world wars, died Friday night at a military hospital in Dijon. He had been stricken by food poisoning.

Earlier today the general, who had been retired since the end of World War II, received the last rites of the Roman Catholic church.

His death was announced at a night session of the National Assembly, the lower House of the French Parliament, by Socialist Deputy Andre Le Troquervice, Assembly president.

During the two wars Giraud escaped six times from German prisons. He received the medaille militaire (military medal) yesterday. This is France's highest decoration and is generally given only to enlisted men. It is an unusual distinction for an officer to receive it.

Since his retirement, Giraud had been living quietly with his wife and two daughters in Metz, France.

Commanded In Africa

Giraud commanded the French forces in North Africa in the 1942-43 allied invasion and campaign. He resigned in April, 1944, after a quarrel with Gen Charles De Gaulle, commander of Free French forces in exile.

In the battle of France in 1940, Giraud commanded groups of armies in northern France. He was cited for holding back the Germans until his forces were crushed and he was captured May 21, 1940.

Taken as a prisoner to Germany, he was finally placed in Koenigstein fortress, in Saxony, from which he escaped in April, 1942. This escape was one of the most dramatic incidents of his adventurous life.

Reports were that Giraud spent eight months painstakingly weaving together a 65-foot rope from small strands of thread sent to him in letters by his wife. The night he slipped down the wall at Koenigstein, he encountered a German sentry. In perfect German, Giraud remarked, "pretty cold tonight, isn't it my boy?" and strolled on his way whistling.

Divorce Action Filed

A divorce petition was filed by Ida Waller against Henry Waller Friday in circuit court alleging general indignities. The petition states the couple was married on or about May 15, 1939. Attorneys for plaintiff are Montgomery, Martin and Salveter.

Settle Strike Of Gravediggers

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Catholic gravediggers settled with their church Friday an eight-week old strike which had caused Francis Cardinal Spellman to use young priests and seminarians for burial tasks.

The settlement was on terms of the Cardinal, who said "it brings to a close one of the most difficult, grievous and heartbreaking issues ever to come in my time as archbishop of New York."

Cardinal Spellman had termed the strike "unjustified and immoral." Coffins bearing more than 1,000 bodies had lain unburied in shallow, temporary trenches at two Catholic cemeteries.

The gravediggers went into the AFL building service employes union earlier this week after ending ties with the CIO food, tobacco and agricultural workers of America, which Spellman had termed Communist-controlled. The CIO union did not answer this allegation. Local officials denied any Communist ties.

The Catholic prelate said the settlement called for an eight and one-third percent increase in basic six-day weekly pay. This brought it to $64.35. The union had demanded a five-day week at the current weekly pay of $59.40.

Both cemeteries are operated by trustees of St. Patrick's cathedral.

A three-man committee, including representatives of the church and union and a third party to be agreed upon by both sides, will make a study of the possibility of reducing the work week.

Would Retain Chief At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, March 12—(AP)—The newly-appointed St. Louis police board, at its first meeting Friday, decided to retain Jeremiah O'Connell as chief of police.

The board's first order to the chief was for him to inform all policemen of "our wish that they rigidly enforce all the laws and ordinances."

This was the board's reply to widespread rumors that when it took office law enforcement, particularly that relating to gambling, would not be as strict as it had been. O'Connell has strictly enforced anti-gaming laws since he became chief.

In a statement the board said "we hope to give St. Louisians a police department they will be proud of" ad asked the "help and cooperation of every law-abiding citizen" in the interest of the law enforcement.

The board, recently appointed by Gov. Forrest Smith, is composed of William L. Holzhausen, president; Maurice G. Roberts, Daniel G. Church and Charles H. Ostertag.

Cost $4,500 To Prevent Echo

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 12—(AP)—The court room where the Ford brothers were tried for the slaying of Jesse James is now without an echo but it cost the county $4,500.

The room was remodeled last year, but when the work was finished it was found that ordinary conversation created echoes making it impossible to hear witnesses. Special soundproofing was added to eliminate the echoes.

Until last year the room had not been altered since the trial of the Ford brothers in the early 80s.

In 1491, the Scottish parliament provided penalties of a fine and imprisonment for anyone playing golf or allowing his land to be used for golf; parliament felt golfers were taking too much time from their required archery.

No Decision To Meet With The Vatican

Proposal To Protestants Go To Committee

CLEVELAND, March 12—(AP)—Delegates at a conference representing 35,000,000 American protestants came to no decision Friday on holding a meeting between top world Protestant leaders and the Vatican on religious freedom.

They referred the matter to the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America which meets in New York next week. A four day meeting here on moral influences in international affairs was sponsored by one of the council's sections.

Specifically the conference referred the idea of Vatican-Protestant meetings to the committee without recommendation because of "insufficient time" to study the proposal. The subject of Catholicism touched off hot debate on the floor.

Just before the final session closed, the subject was reopened and the conference endorsed the statement of the World Council of Churches on Religious Freedom, previously made public, and added:

"When threatened by autocratic or tyrannical power, protestants will therefore take their stand according to the dictates of conscience, and will protest against any earthly coersion, political or ecclesiastical, that assumes the prerogatives of God and attempts to prescribe the individual conscience.

"We thank God for all brothers of the faith everywhere who by their supreme loyalty to God and in his strength are bearing witness against totalitarianism, reminding the nations of the world of the divine basis of all human rights and freedoms and the ground of all sound world order and peace."

Various Issues Involved

Dr. O. Frederick Nolde of Lutheran theological seminary, Philadelphia, who introduced the resolution on a Protestant-Vatican meeting, said he believed the conference's failure to act stemmed from these reasons:

1. Some delegates wanted to write a document against "totalitarianism in Roman Catholic practices."

2. A majority of the delegates sensed the situation was "so complicated" they ought not to take definitive action. For example, "political as well as religious factors" are involved in the Mindszenty case.

3. A majority also wondered how, for example, "you can differentiate between totalitarian practices in Spain and in Communist-controlled states."

Delegates rose in large numbers to argue after the introduction of an amendment to the statement introduced by a Baptist member. It asked the recall of Myron C. Taylor, President Truman's personal emissary to the Vatican, and said "ecclesiastical policies of the Roman Catholic church do not accord with religious freedom."

The amendment was defeated.

Before adjourning, the conference went on record as opposed to all filibustering in Congress.

Earlier, the conference, composed of delegates from 57 denominations and allied religious bodies, approved a message which will go to thousands of churches. It states the conference views on Christian influences in international affairs.

Liquor Raid Is Made In Kansas

GREAT BEND, Kas., March 12—(AP)—A liquor raid—the first in Kansas since the state's new control act went into effect—was staged at Ellinwood late Thursday by county and state officers.

The raid came a day after the new law, making possession of limited amount of liquor legal, was published in the official state paper, ending 69 years of prohibition in Kansas.

The enforcement officers included Assistant County Attorney Ray Schulz, Undersheriff Alfred Jacka and agents of the state attorney general's office.

Using a search warrant issued here by Justice of the Peace Jack Morrison, Jr., the raiding party entered the residence of Mrs. Christine Kipp. They reported they found seven bushel baskets of whiskey and wines—the exact number of bottles not yet determined—in a false wall on the first floor.

Mrs. Kipp, ill with influenza, was not arrested. The officers said she admitted them to the house, then went back to bed.

County Attorney Art Hagen said he was drawing up a charge of illegal possession of alcoholic beverages against Mrs. Kipp. He said it would be based upon a provision of the new law that no one may have more than three wine gallons of liquor in his possession at one time.

The Salvation Army reports a total of 13,766 conversions was brought about in its work in the United States during 1948.

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

I believe it is about time to remind our readers that as we go into a new season we should consider our foundation garments. Now, that suits are included in everyone's wardrobe again this is especially important. Be sure that you have a new garment and have your new dresses and suits fitted with them on. We have new plunging necklines in dresses and blouses and it is most important that your bra is built accordingly. You'll find many new styles with deeper cut lines. Your bras should have wide durable straps that are adjustable. White lingerie is again tops—so be sure to include plenty of it when buying your spring supply.

News in Rainy Day Scarfs

By Epsie Kinard
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — The drenched newspaper shielding the girl caught in a shower inspires a guess-what as a rainy day accessory?

A scarf of white water-proof cotton printed to resemble a full sized, eight column, snappily illustrated newspaper.

This idea of making an obliging newspaper more so by printing it on cotton made impervious to rain is scarf-designer Brooks Cadwallader's. His "newspaper" headcovering is called "The Strata Star." In water-resistant black-and-white print, it folds for bulkless stuffing into a pocket. In case of rain, unfolded newspaper fashion, it flashes from a girl's head the news of 1999 in fantastic headlines, pictures and stories.

Typical front-page peak into the future which a reader gets from this "newspaper" is an interview with a French actress who rockets in from Uni-Europe.

This "newspaper's" advance slants on advertising are seen in back-page notices of reduced rates to the moon and end-of-season sales on atomic-heated coats.

Enroll In Kansas College

Charles Gudrop and John Brown, of Sedalia, are among the 1,800 students enrolled at the Pittsburgh Kansas State college for the spring semester.

Six Kansas counties, 26 states and two foreign countries and four protectorates of the United States are represented in the enrollment.

White water-proof cotton makes this amusing "newspaper scarf" a practical rainy day accessory.

Social Events

Mrs. John W. Menefee, 612 South Grand avenue, is leaving this week for Pittsburgh, Pa., to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Lewis and her daughter, Miss Mary Jane Allison. She expects to be gone about three weeks.

Miss Jean Callis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Callis, Route 5, Sedalia, who is a student at Lindenwood college, is one of 20 Lindenwood girls who are on a choir tour in parts of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. The choir group left St. Charles Wednesday morning and will be gone a week.

Donna Lynn Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Richardson, 1020 South Harrison avenue, celebrated her 13th birthday anniversary Thursday afternoon with a party at her home.

Decorations and favors were in keeping with the St. Patrick's day motif of green and white. A large green hat, upside down in which were snapdragons, formed the centerpiece for the table.

The afternoon was spent in playing games for which awards were given.

Birthday cake was served with ice cream and "Cokes" to the following: Charlene Laudenberger, Mary Louise Clopton, Patti Brown, Joyce Burke, Joy Cunningham, Mary Ann Bridges, Lou Audel Gehle, Carrolee Harned, Nancy Harned, Sara Harned, Carolyn Rose Heck, Pat Korando, Mildred McCandless, Nancy Ann Vaughan, Donna Lynn and Sylvia Kay Richardson.

Mrs. Richardson was assisted in serving by Mrs. Merlin McCandless.

A number of those invited were unable to attend because of illness.

The honoree received many nice gifts.

Smith-Cotton Plays March 24 and 25

The Intra-Mural plays of the Smith-Cotton high school, will be held March 24th and 25th, Friday and Saturday evenings as 7:30 o'clock. Tickets must be had to attend the Thursday night show, but may be secured at the door for the Friday night show. The afternoon of the 23rd, an elementary school show will be held at 1:30 o'clock.

Fifteen-minute skits will be presented over KDRO, starting March 21st. Casts and directors of the plays will be announced next week.

Not So Intimate

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Hollywood usually is regarded—even by film folk—as an intimate community, where all the stars know one another.

Both Robert Young and George Brent have been around for 15 years. More than one eyebrow went up when, reporting for "Love Is Big Business" at RKO, Young and Brent admitted sheepishly that they had never met.

Clever Scissor Work Transforms Scarf to Gilet For Spring Suit

With a square of fabric cut out of one corner, the sheer silk scarf which the model holds (left) is easier to drape as a gilet for her suit. Scarf ends are pulled through medallion and tucked inside of neckband (above).

By Alicia Hart
NEA Staff Writer

After your large silk square has served its usefulness as a winter head covering, you can give it a springtime whirl as a gilet.

To cast a large unweildy scarf for that role do what many fashion models do. Cut a small square out of one corner of the scarf, so that it will fit better around your neck. This scarf surgery will also give you, after raw edges of the cut-out square are hemmed, easier-to-manage ends. These you can carry around the neck at the back and bring to the front for fastening.

Instead of fastening by tying scarf ends, you can pull both tabs through the ring of a medallion or other pendant. This done, tuck tabs inside of the scarf neckband. A pretty ornament used in this fashion will not only take care of your jewelry needs but will weight the scarf and keep it better anchored under your suit jacket.

What to do with the small square that you cut out of your big scarf? After hemming the two cut sides, use to brighten up the neckline of a dark dress. Simply fold the little square diagonally across and wind spiral fashion around a choker necklace. The ends of the small scarf may be tied into short tabs at the back where your necklace fastens.

Hot Stuff in the Refrigerator Field

Ideal for small apartments is this unit, combining a refrigerator with a four-burner stove. The four-cubic-foot refrigerator and stove, which can be equipped with either gas or electric burners, is produced in Los Angeles. Pat Reeber pours a glass of cold milk, but she can change her mind and have hot coffee just by reaching up to the stove.

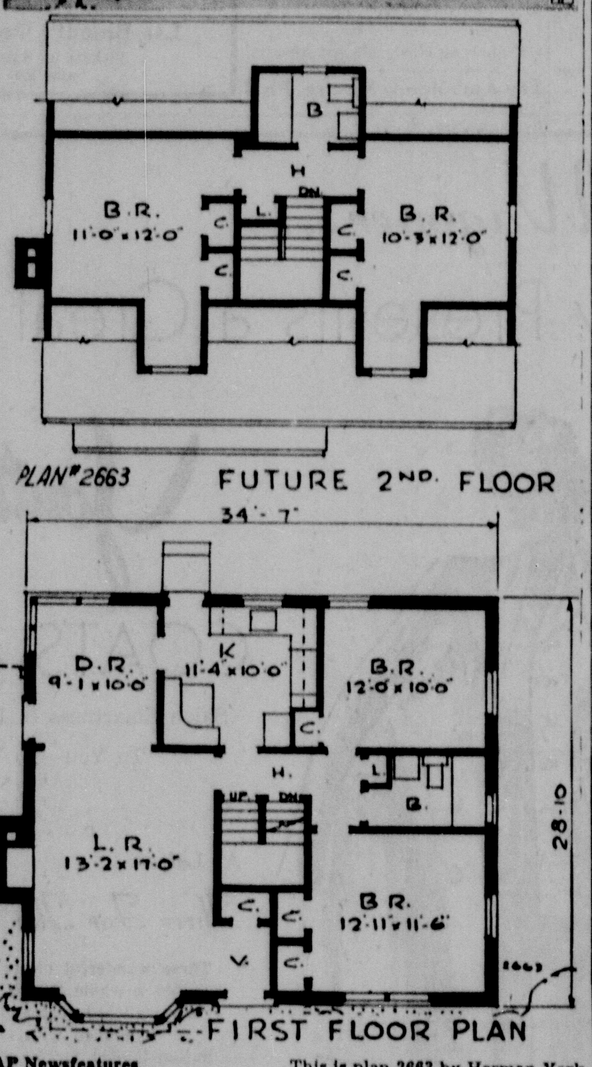
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



AP Newsfeatures

National demand for "economy homes" is bringing out plans of this type with complete living requirements provided on the first floor, yet with space upstairs for additional rooms and extra bath. This is plan 2663 by Herman York, architect, 199-33 Keno Ave., Hollis 7, N. Y. A breezeway to connect a future garage can be built behind the chimney to open from the side door in the dining room. The house covers 997 square feet.

Shop Due To Fire

Fire originating from an oil heater at the Albert Scroggins radio shop 415 North Monitea caused a run by the fire companies Friday at 2:32 p. m. It caused an estimated $50 damage to the building and about $400 to the contents within Texas Friday evening.

Mrs. Scotten was unaware of their home catching fire until Miss Rector told her over the 'phone.

Nearly a week's vacation will be postponed. All four are now on their way to Sedalia. They had planned on staying a week in Texas visiting with friends and relatives.

Finally Learn Home Burned

At least Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Scotten, enjoyed one week of a two weeks' vacation before hearing the bad news of their home burning Monday night which resulted in an estimated $5,000 loss

Mr. and Mrs. Scotten were accompanied by Mrs. P. V. Scotten and Mrs. Fred Kusek on a trip to Mexico. Following the fire Monday night, the highway patrol attempted to spoil their vacation by endeavoring to locate them, at which time, it was believed they were in the state of Oklahoma.

Even messages were sent to Texas and a custom house on the border line of Texas and Mexico, but the vacationists slipped by without any message

After returning to the United States, Mrs. C. F. Scotten called Miss Marjorie Rector, secretary to Mr. Scotten, county superintendent of schools, from McAllen,

Better Home Club Meeting

Mrs. L. F. Payne was hostess to the Better Home club March 4th in an all-day meeting. A contributive dinner was served to 11 members and Mrs. Helen Nutt, Mrs. Maggie Payne, Mrs. Goldie Butterbaugh, Mrs. Charles Hieronymus and daughter, Mrs. Warren Hood, Mrs. Virgil Reed and Linda, Clay Thomas, Walter Eads, Walton Berry, G. W. Brady, Judge J. V. Kesterson, Vernon Glenn, L. F. Payne, Judge W. L. Marlin, and George Brady, Jr.

The afternoon session was opened with a poem "Winter of Life," read by Mrs. J. V. Kesterson. The Lord's Prayer was repeated. Roll call was answered with, "Some new vegetable or flower I plan to grow." The club voted a cash donation to the Red Cross. Mrs. George Brady and Mrs. F. L. Payne, food dealers, gave a report on the use of canned foods, and served two of the dishes at the noon meal. An auction was held after business session, and $11.10 was realized, the proceeds to be used for an ice cream social this summer for the members and their families.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. George Brady Friday, April 1st.

Sharp Salesmen Posing As Poll-Takers Cost Plenty

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—The popularity of public opinion polls has spawned a dubious offspring that is costing Americans plenty.

Sharp salesmen are posing as poll-takers to gain the confidence of their victims, then selling them cheap merchandise at painfully exorbitant prices.

Complaints have been pouring in to Better Business Bureaus from more than a score of cities. Not only from the duped buyers but also from bona fide market research agencies, from companies whose advertised brand names often are misused by the phony pollsters, and from legitimate door-to-door salesmen.

The National Better Business Bureau says this form of public deception is by far the most widespread salesmanship "racket" to emerge in this country since the war. It's spreading fast in rural areas, too.

How It Works

The golden gimmick, as the fake-survey approach has been dubed, has many variations. But here's how it generally works:

The salesman knocks on Mrs. Smith's door and tells her he's making a survey to determine the neighborhood's favorite radio program—or comic strip, or soap. He may claim to represent a nationally known advertiser.

Mrs. Smith probably is willing to give her opinion. She knows the true field interviewer merits her support. After all, legitimate market surveys often result in better products. And how is a company to know how its goods and services can be made to suit her better unless she speaks her mind? So she invites him in.

Gift In Appreciation

The salesman make a big show of writing down her answers carefully. He flows over with gratitude for her cooperation.

"To show you our appreciation," he may say, "we'd like to send you this valauble silverware set.. All you'll have to pay is the cost of handling and postage—$2 a week for a short time. Just write your name and address down here so we'll know where to send it, and thank you so much."

Mrs. Smith scribbles her name and address, and graciously shows the gentleman out. Then she takes another look at the fine print above her signature—and finds she's going to be paying that $2 a week for a long, long time. That's a sales contract she signed.

Then It's a Bill

Maybe the salesman doesn't even leave her a copy, and the next time she sees that little slip of paper it's in a bill-collector's hand.

John J. Burke, who heads the NBBB's nationwide campaign against this type of salesmanship, makes it clear the bureau does not question the right of anyone to conduct a survey of opinion whether or not the material ever is used later.

"In Brooklyn just a couple of weeks ago, a glib-tongued expert at the golden gimmick made a clean sweep of one neighborhood," he said. "Then a few days later somebody else tried it. He hardly got the word 'survey' out of his mouth before his prospect called for help. I'm told the angry housewives chased him for blocks."

At Bangor, Maine, the bureau's warning reached town almost at the same time the phony pollsters did.

Have Made a Mint

"A newspaper editor there wrote an editorial about it and folks were ready for 'em" Burke said. "But in other cities from Philadelphia to San Francisco, the phonies have made a mint."

How can you tell if a survey is sincere?

"The true survey interviewer will never try to sell you anything never ask you to pay any money and never ask you to sign an agreement to buy tnything," said Burke. "If he does, please refer his name, company and the product he's selling to the Better Business Bureau or your Chamber of Commerce."

Crossroads Comment

by G.H.S.

Maybe it's just a grandstand show of Shelby County Representative Cecil T. Taylor, chairman of the House Taxation and Revenue committee, trying to jam through a bill in the Missouri legislature to double the intangible tax rate, from 4% to 8%, including corporate stocks in the tax base.

There are times when such grandstand antics are ignored by those who later are hit the hardest on dizzy tax legislation. Unless a genuine protest is made against Representative Taylor's bill stockholders may wake up some fine morning to yell bloody murder too late. This House Bill No. 114 on Intangible Tax might be of concern to the farmers, too, who may find ultimately that interest rates on their mortages could go up if the intangible tax rate is increased.

This bill has been reported favorably by a House committee. Pettis county's Representative Dan Doty, of Sedalia, one of the committeemen, voted for it. If you think Dan voted right and you want the intangible tax increased then you should write him a letter of approval and volunteer your support of him on this increased tax measure. If you don't want the tax increased then you should write Mr. Doty to that effect. Also write your opinions to State Senator C. R. Hawkins, Brumley, Missouri.

Objection to the nation-wide epidemic of raising taxes was exemplified recently in a local lodge meeting when finances and increased dues came up for discussion. One of the old timers jumped up on his hind legs, with vehemence, waved his arms and scornfully and solemnly moaned:

"Raise the taxes, raise the dues; raise the taxes, raise the dues!"

This broke the lodge record for short speeches and demonstrations, and the motion to raise the dues was promptly defeated.

Atlantic Alliance Designed To Maintain Peace

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign News Anaylst

The North Atlantic Alliance, which finally has been approved in draft form by all parties, is generally described as a defensive pact—a back-handed way of putting a far more telling fact:

It is designed to be a powerful instrument for the maintenance of peace.

Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, whose country is one of the subscribers to the alliance, emphasized this point in a speech in Montreal the other day. He said:

"For my part, I am convinced that the surest and most practical way of assuring maintenance of peace is to bring about as soon as possible the union of nations friendly to peace."

An Ideal Situation

Of course the ideal situation would be for all nations to be so peace-minded that war would be outlawed. However, we haven't reached that happy stage. As St. Laurent remarked:

"There is no doubt that war is avoidable—and I am sure that if we follow our present firm policy we can avoid war. But one would have to be lacking most elementary realism to consider war an impossibility."

So the Atlantic Alliance is calculated to be peace insurance. Apropos of this U. S. Secretary of State Acheson yesterday told a news conference in Washington that the treaty as now drawn provides means for eliminating a sense of insecurity and thereby aiding recovery among the signatory nations. John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic reporter in Washington, interpreted this as meaning "that the Marshall Plan countries of Europe, having extraordinary assurance of United States military support, will feel less fear of war and great confidene in the future—a confidence necessary to economic progress."

Countries Participating

The countries which thus far have participated in drafting the treaty are America, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Norway and Luxembourg. Others who may join are Denmark, Iceland, Portugal and Italy. Sweden has been burning midnight oil in debating the momentous question of whether she should desert her traditional neutrality and follow the lead of her two Scandinavian colleagues, Norway and Denmark.

Naturally, such an alliance, no matter how peacefully designed, must be expected to cause heartburnings in Eastern Europe. Thus it isn't surprising there should be a report that the powerful cominform (Communist international information bureau) might be preparing to launch an alliance to match the North Atlantic pact. A recent report from Poland said a Cominform military conference was to be held about March 15 in Hungary and this has given rise to speculation about a possible alliance.

Formed Economic Council

Recently all the Cominform nations having Communist governments formed an economic council for mutual aid as a parallel to the Marshall Plan. The nations involved were Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia—all of the Cominform countries excepting France and Italy, where non-Communist governments are in power, and Yugo-Slavia, which has been expelled from the Cominform.

At that time some observers predicted that a parallel military organization also would be formed. The Cominform satellites already have mutual-assistance treaties with Moscow. However, these pacts don't have the character of a general alliance. They pledge mutual assistance only in case of war with Germany or a power joined directly or indirectly with Germany.

The question now is whether the Cominform meeting reportedly scheduled for mid-March will form a military bloc to counter the Atlantic Alliance. Still, such a development wouldn't greatly alter the relative positions of the Eastern and Western groups.

Sedalia Sport Association Organizing

Plans For Year Round Sports In Community

The first major step taken in Sedalia to further sport activities is now underway, and will soon be incorporated, and known as the Sedalia Athletic Association.

Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, all sport minded persons are invited to attend a meeting in the general assembly room of the court house for the purpose of perfecting the organization.

Year 'Round Sports

This association will provide year around sports in Sedalia, and will operate on a community basis. Plans are to sell membership certificates in this enterprise where thousands will take an active interest in sports.

Friday evening, eleven Sedalia business men elected officers for the ensuing year. The meeting and election of officers took place in Prosecuting Attorney William Brown's office, who acted as legal advisor and assisted the newly elected offices in promulgating the by-laws of the corporation, Saturday evening.

Officers Elected

Jack Cunningham was elected president, Ivan Berry vice-president, Paul Maxwell secretary and William Bunn, treasurer. Other representatives at the meeting were Robert Cain, Lloyd Phillips, Harold Seaberg, Earl "Potts" Evans, Frank Eschbacher Bert Hathaway and Wilbert Askew.

When the association is incorporated which is anticipated to be in about a week, all persons interested in sports will have an opportunity to join the association.

Its first objective will be to organize a strong baseball team.

Agitation Over Tourney Rules

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 12—(AP)—Members of the Missouri State High School Activities Association are almost two to one in favor of changing the present basketball tournament set-up Executive Secretary T. L. Noel told the board of control today.

Noel said returns from a mail ballot showed 331 member schools voted for a change providing for division into two classes, while 182 recommended the tournament continue as a one class affair.

He pointed out the board is not obligated to make the change, but the board members will study the tournament programs of other states before the May meeting in Columbia.

The state tournament was split into A and B classes in 1932 and 1933, and again during the period from 1939 through 1942. Since 1943, however, it has been a single class tournament.

Ed Potter, member of the board from St. Louis, reported that smaller high schools are agitating for a return of the A and B tournament divisions, contending they had little chance in competition with the larger schools.

He pointed out, however, that Bonne Terre, Buffalo and John Burroughs of St. Louis, three of the semi-finalists in the current tournament are schools which would fall in the B classification.

Wilbur Stalcup, University of Missouri basketball coach appeared before the board to request that the state tournament be transferred to Columbia. The meet has been held here six times in the past seven years.

In another action today the board fined the Fair Grove high school $25 for using uncertified referees in a basketball game with Rogersville, February 15.

Hamline U. Wins NAIB Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 12—(AP)—Hamline University's Pied Pipers, of St. Paul, won their second national intercollegiate (NAIB) basketball championship by besting Regis College Rangers, of Denver, 57 to 46 tonight.

A crowd of slightly under 10,000 largest ever to witness a basketball game here, saw the finals.

The paid attendance was 9,600.

Hamline, which won the championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament in 1942, became the first team to annex two titles. Its great stars, Hal Haskins, and Vern Mikkelson, poured in 21 and 18 points, respectively

The Pipers were ahead 12 to 4 after the first ten minutes. Regis had scored one field goal up to that time. The Denver team tried desperately to stay in the contest, and put on its strongest rally in the last four minutes as Don Heffley and Bob Wallace each threw in a couple of fielders before the half time gun.

Consolation To Beloit

Johnny Orr's 28 points sparked Beloit (Wis.) College's Big Gold to a 67 to 59 victory over Indiana State's Sycamores of Terrahuate, for consolation honors.

An estimated 9,500 fans, one of the largest basketball gatherings in Kansas City's history, turned out for the final card of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball eleventh tournament. Every seat in spacious Municipal Auditorium was filled and spectators jammed the exits.

Indiana State, twice an MIAB finalist, was beaten by the University of Louisville (Ky) for the title last year. The Indianians made a great game of it tonight until the last nine minutes. Then the deadly shooting of Orr and whirlwind attack of the Goldmen snowed under the gameIndiana Sycamores.

Houstonia to Hold Tourney

Houstonia Independent double elimination basketball tournament will be staked at Houstonia four nights this week, starting Wednesday and playing through Saturday.

Eight teams have entered: Sedalia Harvesters, Hughesville, Malta Bend, Sweet Springs, Green Ridge, Houstonia, La Monte Merchants, La Monte Independents.

Opening the tournament will be Hughesville-Malta Bend, Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A game played between Sweet Springs and Green Ridge, and another between Houstonia and La Monte Merchants will follow.

Sedalia Harvesters will clash with La Monte Independents, on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock, and the two games to follow that night will be played between winners and losers in Wednesday night's tilt.

The Harvesters should streak through the tournament without any difficulty, since the team has defeated every team in the tournament this season.

Machinists Maintain Winning Streaks

The Machinists are still out in front of the other twelve bowling teams in the Missouri Pacific Bowling League with a total of 51 games won, and 24 lost during the bowling season. The Wheel Shop, the only other team to support stiff competition to the Machinists are running a close race in second place with 49 games won during the season tilt.

Gumbert To Terms With "Redleg Prexy"

TAMPA, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Pitcher Harry Gumbert, the Cincinnati Red's lone holdout, today came to terms with Redleg President Warren C. Giles.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed. It was reported that Gumbert, who compiled a 10-8 record in relief last season, was seeking a $5,000 boost over his $15,000 salary last year.

Major League Exhibition Games

MIAMI, Fla., March 12—(AP)—The largest baseball crowd in Miami's history, 7,115 fans, today saw the Brooklyn Dodgers set back the National league's champion Boston Braves 5-2 in one of the opening games of the Citrus circuit.

Jackie Robinson clouted Johnny Antonelli's first pitch for a 400 foot home run. Additional four base blows were walloped by Tom Brown and Roy Campanella to help provide the Dodgers their winning margin.

Sport Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

THE St. Louis Cardinals at present appear to be orphans in St. Louis for want of a baseball park to play in. Inasmuch as they haven't anything yet, it has been suggested that maybe they would be interested in Liberty Park, Sedalia, Missouri. In fact, I am told an invitation has been or will be sent the Cardinal management inviting them to come to Sedalia until they get their own ball park built in St. Louis.

Of course this sounds rather ridiculous, that such a World Champion organization would shift from St. Louis to Sedalia, but anything is possible these days. If they can't get a park to play in at home, Sedalia to our belief has the best semi-pro baseball park in the State of Missouri, and improvements are underway to give it a big league diamond.

Many Sedalians can recall during the war days when the Browns checked over the possibilities of coming here to hold spring practice and they were well pleased. In fact at that time the Browns management passed a strong compliment on the Liberty Park baseball plant.

EACH year, not a week during baseball season passes that a group of Sedalians don't drive to St. Louis to see the Cards play. Now if they could be encouraged to play a few games here it would shorten up those trips, not only from the many Sedalia fans but those from surrounding towns.

It's just a dream of some local fans—But it's a good one.

BUDDY THOMAS, former Junior Legion baseball star, who is a member of the St. Louis Browns, leaves Monday for San Antonia, Texas, for spring training with the San Antonio Missions. Thomas received word the past week ordering him to the Texas training camp.

During the first of the 1948 season Thomas played with the Elmira, New York, ball club and later went to Globe-Miami, Arizona, where he played with the twin-city ball club until the end of the season.

He has not received notice as to what team he will join when the season play starts this year.

Thomas is a great shortstop and will be remembered here as one of the mainstays of Junior Legion baseball until he departed to the higher ranks of baseball. He played in the Esquire All-Star game in New York several seasons ago and attracted the eyes of several big league scouts.

Buddy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Thomas, 813 East Sixteenth street.

THE organization of the Sedalia Athletic Association being formed here for the betterment of sports is attracting attention of a great many sport followers. The Association is one in which any sport fan can become a member and their memberships will be appreciated.

If the plans are accomplished it will be a boom to sports in Sedalia, and in turn will be a hand-in-hand organization which can cooperate with the Northeast Athletic Club and can be a help to that group.

Should the plans materialize, Sedalia may get a minor league baseball team in Sedalia within the next year or two. Those who started off the Association at a meeting last week announced it was their desire to see Sedalia get into a league comparable to the K-O-M.

The new Association is to be incorporated. By-laws and rules were drafted by a committee Saturday which will give it a solid foundation upon which to organize.

First Rounds In The NIBT Are Completed

Loyola, Bradley, Bowling Green and San Francisco Win

By Ben Phlegar

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Loyola of Chicago completed the first round rout of New York entries in the National invitation basketball tournament tonight with a 62-47 victory over City College of New York. Earlier today San Francisco defeated Manhattan 68-43; Bradley whipped New York University, 89-67, and Bowling Green beat St. John's of Brooklyn 77-64.

Bowling Green Beats St. John's

The Skyscrapers from Bowling Green overpowered St John's University of Brooklyn, 77-64.

The victory put the Ohio five in the quarter-finals against second-seeded St. Louis University.

San Francisco ousted Manhattan College 68 to 45.

Obviously outmanned from the start, the Brooklyn club refused to give up and stayed within hailing distance most of the way. A series of injuries added to St. John's difficulties.

Bradley Over New York

Paul Unruh and Bill Mann, the crew cut twins led Bradley University to a 89-67 victory over New York University.

Bradley joined the University of San Francisco in the quarter-final round. The West Coast Dons trampled Manhattan College, 68-43, in the opening game of Saturday's matinee which brought 8,751 paying customers to Madison Square Garden.

San Francisco will meet their-seeded Utah in the quarter finals Monday night. Utah drew a first round bye.

The Peoria Braves were a hard driving team, willing to run all night. They'll face third-seeded Western Kentucky in the quarter-finals Monday afternoon.

State All-Star Team is Named

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 12 (AP)—Tom Lillis, outstanding center for Rockhurst of Kansas City, was the only unanimous choice on the All-State high school team selected by a tournament committee here tonight

Four centers were chosen on the first squad. In addition to Lillis, they were Dave Sisler of John Burroughes, Adrain Guant of Buffalo and Gene Lanoolt of Bonne Terre. Fifth man was Billy Thomas, Buffalo guard.

Named on the second squad were: Dick Buckridge, Maryville; John Dull, Buffalo; Ben Bishop and Helm Lillis, Rockhurst, and Bob Schoonmaker, Lebanon.

Honorable mention went to John Williams and Dick Donahue, Rockhurst; Harry Proctor, Maryville; Lowell Fitzsimmons, Bowling Green; Jack Trogdon, Republic, and Al Burr, Bonne Terre.

Oklahoma and Nebraska Tie In Big Seven

Sooners Gain Joint Honors by Defeating Colorado 55 to 44

NORMAN, Okla., March 12—(AP)—Oklahoma beat Colorado 55-44 here tonight and tied the Big Seven basketball championship with Nebraska.

Within 48 hours they must play a tie-breaker for undisputed possession—with the winner tackling powerful Oklahoma A and M on Wednesday to decide which team represents district five in the NCAA tourney

Steady Sooner Nerves

In spite of all that depended on the game, the Sooners showed steady nerves all the way—with 23 points from 28 free throws to prove it. Oklahoma led 23-30 at the half.

Colorado fought hard, but Bruce Drake's Oklahomans had the mastery, especially in the second half.

The game opened with a Colorado flurry that shot the Buffaloes to a 12-11 lead in 11 minutes. Free throws from Oklahoma's Paul Merchant and Key Pryor put the Sooners ahead 13-12, and they never were outdistanced.

In the closing two minutes of the filrst half, Carr Besemann pushed Colorado up to a 20-20 tie with two quick goals, but Courty hit a drive-in and Wayne Glasgow made his tnree throw for the 23-20 Sooner halftime score.

The Buffs tried a comeback at the first of the second half—not quite making it, 26-24. Then they dropped behind under steadily increasing gap as the Sooners turned on the steam.

With three minutes left, Oklahoma sprinted to a smash finish. Center Doug Lynn making his first appearance, sank two. Courty hit another on a fast break. Pryor got a lay-up, and Merchant a free throw to tell the tale 55-44.

Syracuse Tourney Won by Otterville

Otterville town team defeated Syracuse 57 to 51 in the annual Syracuse invitational tournament, Saturday night, to win the championship. Third place went to California town team who defeated Jamestown town team by a score of 56 to 42.

The Consolation honors went to Stover's town team which defeated the Tipton Legion by a score of 49 to 40.

Marcum was high point man for Otterville with 24 and Kirchner of Syracuse with 19. Mintrun, of California scored 20 of his team's points while Reimler came through for Jamestown with 29 points. Martins of Stover scored 19 points and Bixler, 16 for Tipton.

Cletus Helms, Sedalia, officiated over the games.

The tournament was one of the best held in Syracuse.

Jr. Legion Meeting Has Been Postponed

A meeting of Junior Legion baseball players which was scheduled for today at the Legion Hall of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, has been postponed. The meeting was postponed by J. A. Thomas manager, due to the bad weather.

Thomas announced a date would be set sometime the latter part of the week at which time all plans for tryouts will be announced. He is anticipating a large attendance at the first meeting and each and every boy will be given an opportunity to display his baseball playing wares.

Moore Starts New Career With Cards

Retired Outfielder Takes Over New Duties as Coach

By Jack Hand

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12—(AP)— Terry Moore, retired outfield flash and new St. Louis Cardinal coach, wishes he could play his baseball career all over again.

"I'd almost want to play for nothing," said Terry as he stripped off his soaking uniform in the Cards clubhouse.

No longer does Terry dress in the big open room with the long benches like the other Cardinals. As a coach he shares a cubbyhole office with Manager Eddie Dyer and Coaches Buzzy Wares and Tony Kaufmann.

Moore, starting a new career at the age of 36, glowed as he talked of the days that used to be.

"The saddest day in a ball player's life," he said, "is the day he has to admit he's through—you know you can't play like you should—that you have only a couple of struggling years ahead. You want to quit before they say 'Moore, oh yes, he was a good ball player once. Why doesn't he get out and give somebody else a chance?'

Tough To Face

"When you know you're going downhill, it's tough to face the end. You think what's going to happen to you after you can't run any more. Your eyes are perfect but you can't seem to pull that ball anymore The pitch you used to pull, you slice to right. You find yourself diving for balls you used to catch in your back pocket.

"That was the way it was with me in 1946 after I came back from service. I was playing with a bad left knee. It felt as though somebody was sticking knives in it. Still I managed to finish out the season and play the world series. It never hurt in the excitement. After it was over I wondered how I ever did it.

"It wasn't bad in 1947 and I played 127 games but last year I knew I was through. I could go pretty good for two or three days but I couldn't keep it up. Skip (Dyer) knew it and he gave me every chance to rest up Just before the end of the season I had to give up and go on the inactive list to become a coach.

A Choice

"They gave me my choice—coaching or managing a Triple A farm. I wanted to stay in baseball in some job and I thought coaching would be the best. I figured I would lose more by getting out of touch with the league, if I went to the minors, than I would gain in experience.

"This is a whole new field breaking in as a coach. I find myself thinking as a player, watching a pitcher work and wondering what he's going to throw at me. I guess I'll get used to it after awhile.

"My biggest thrill was that 1942 world series. That third game at the Yankee stadium when Ernie White beat Spud Chandler, 2-0. First time the Yankees had been shut out in a world series for years.

"That was the game I made that catch on Joe Dimaggio on a liner in left center. Stan Musial in left lost the ball in the sun and dove for it. He didn't know I was coming over but I crossed in front of him and got the ball. Stan heard the big yell and thought it was a home run. He was the most surprised guy in the park when I threw the ball in."

Two Eliminated In Golf Tourney

By James F. Fowler

MIAMI, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Pont Vedra, Fla., battled their way into the finals of the $10,000 Miami International golf tournament today with defending champions Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco.

Alexander and Cooper staged a spectacular stretch drive to beat Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Herman Keiser, St. Andrews, Ill., one up.

Middlecoff and Ferrier eliminated Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Cal., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., two and one

Trailing one down at the end of the 32nd hole, Alexander took a chance on the long par five 15th, drove over a wooded area, and sank a six foot putt for a two under par three evening the match. On the next hole he sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie two under par to move his team into the lead. The match ended on the 36th hole.

Fishing Season Opens Tuesday

JEFFERSON CITY, March 12—(AP)—The bulk of Missouri's game fishermen won't have to read magazines much longer

The season on all but black bass, trout and jack salmon (walleyed pike) begins Tuesday, March 15. The trout season opened March 1 and the season on jacks and black bass opens May 30.

Only a few thousand Missourians are regular anglers for trout in the three state parks and special management waters.

The rest go after the fat and sassy black perch, schooled up crappie, the tussling channel catfish and white bass. Even the black bass and jack salmon anglers will probably tune up on perch, catfish or white bass.

The season on all game fish but trout ends November 30 On trout the season closes October 31.

Daily limits are 12 perch or bluegill, nine crappie or white bass and six channel cats.

Still At It

Connie Mack hasn't lost any of his charm for the younger set, as attested by autograph seeker Marian Tolar at Weekiwachee Springs, near Brooksville, Fla. Mr. Mack's Philadelphia A's are training at West Palm Beach.

Buffalo Bisons Win The State Hi School Title

Defeat Rockhurst 57 to 44 Before A Capacity Crowd

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 12—(AP)—The Buffalo Bisons won the state basketball crown here tonight by defeating Rockhurst of Kansas City, 57-44, in the finals of the annual tournament before a capacity crowd of 4500 at SMS fieldhouse.

It was the first time a Buffalo team had competed in the tournament and the first victory for a "B" class school since Conway triumphed in 1945.

Buffalo started off with a bang, hitting four out of their first five shots from the field, and was never headed although Rockhurst deadlocked the score early in the second period at 17-17. By halftime the Bisons were out front, 33-21 and extended their lead in the last two periods to coast to their 36th victory in 38 starts.

Buffalo was runnerup in the Lebanon regional.

Bonne Terre Wins Third

Bonne Terre's Bulldogs won third place in the state high basketball tournament here tonight, defeating John Burroughs of St. Louis, 39-38.

Free throws by Jim Au-Buchon and Gene Landolt in the last 35 seconds of play brought Bonne Terre from behind for the victory. Bonne Terre had led at halftime 19-17 and at the end of the third quarter, 30-27

Al Burr scored 14 points for the winners and Dave Sisler scored 14 for Burroughs.

Attendance and gate receipt records for the state tournaments, sponsored since 1927 by the MSHSAA, were broken. Gerald Hedgepeth, tournament director, said 15,152 fans paid $14,723.25 to see the games this year.

Shatters 147 Out of 150 Targets In K.C. Shoot

KANSAS CITY, March 12—(AP)—Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., shattered 147 out of 150 targets in the team championship race here today.

It was the best target shooting so far in the interstate tournament.

An Illinois squad won the team championship at target and Missouri shooters regained the team flyer cup.

Tag Match To Highlight Ring Action

Myers-Simonvich Matched Against La Rance Brothers

Wednesday Night's Wrestling Matches In The Armory

Main Match (A tag team contest)—Sonny Myers, 230, St. Joseph, and Lucky Simunovich, 228, Hawaii, versus Johnny La Rance, 221, and Jules La Rance, 220, both from Quebec, Canada. Best two out of three falls to a finish.

Semi-Final Match—Abe (King Kong) Kashey, 230, Comptom, Calif., vs. Red Roberts, 218, Atlanta, Ga. Best two out of three falls, or a 45-minute time limit.

First match Wednesday night starts at 8:30 p.m.

Auspicies of the American Legion, Pearl Christy, matchmaker.

Referee—Jack Hader.

Sonny Myers, straight from his triumph over the masked Red Phantom last week, will pair with popular Lucky Simunovich to meet the rough-housing La Rance brothers, Jules and Johnny, in the featured tag team match on Wednesday night's all-tar American Legion wrestling card in the National Guard Armory. This tag team contest is certain to provide a full measure of thrills and fast action for the fans.

The La Rances came through with impressive triumphs last week and have been boasting that they can defeat any two wrestlers who will have the daring confidence to oppose them

"Both Johnny and Jules have been itching for a tag match," Matchmaker Pearl Christy remarked. "They said everybody is afraid to meet them in such a contest. When Sonny Myers heard about their boasts he promptly asked to sign him up."

Offensive Wrestler

Myers' victory over the Phantom really caught the public by surprise and more firmly than ever established the fact that Sonny is the greatest offensive wrestler of the season.

Abe (King Kong) Kashey, the Comptom, Calif., contender for the heavyweight championship, will strive to keep his perfect Midwestern record intact when he meets Red Roberts of Atlanta in the semi-final match.

Kashey is a seasoned veteran and has headlined numerous cards in both St. Louis and Kansas City in recent years. His commanding ring generalship has kept him among the top ten heavyweights in the nation for more than five seasons.

Both the tag team match and the Kashey-Roberts contest are slated to go the best two out of three falls. The tag event will have no time limit.

The first match Wednesday night will get under way at 8:30 p.m., and Jack Hader will again be back in the ring as the referee. Hader did a masterful pob of officiating last week and won the plaudits of the fans.

Controversy on Human Right To Ask for 'Me rcy' Death

By Adelaide Kerr
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—If you are suffering racking pain from "incurable" disease, should you have the right to ask your doctor for death by swift painless means?

Hundreds of ministers and doctors of New York state believe you should. So do more than 500 members of the Euthanasia society of America. Voluntary euthanasia means ending human life by painless means to stop "incurable" physical suffering—but only at the request of the sufferer.

On the other hand, thousands of other prominent churchmen and physicians believe with equal conviction that you should not have that right.

Around these two points of view today swirls a controversy involving the Ten Commandments, man's relation to God and down-to-earth questions of right and wrong.

Both Sides Working Hard

The euthanasia society, founded in 1938, has many members prominent in science, medicine, letters and religion. Its founder was Dr. Charles Francis Potter, Protestant minister and founder of the first Humanist Society of New York. Its officers and advisory council include Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, president emeritus of Union Theological Seminary, New York; Margaret Sanger, leader of the birth control movement, and authors Fannie Hurst and Somerset Maugham.

Both sides are working hard in defense of their stands.

Recently 379 ministers petitioned the New York State Legislature for a voluntary euthanasia law. Among them were Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, minister emeritus of the Riverside church, and Sidney Goldstein, rabbi of the Temple Emanu-El, both of New York. A committee of 1,776 physicians also took a stand in favor of "mercy" death. Two years ago 1,100 of them petitioned the New York legislature for it.

Drafting A Petition

The euthanasia society is now drafting a petition to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, asking it to recognize as a fundamental human right, "the right to merciful death as a release from incurable suffering."

Strong active opposition to mercy killing is led by the Roman Catholic church. Monsignor Robert E. McCormick, presiding judge of the New York Archdiocese court, and many other priests are attacking it vigorously in pulpit, pamphlet and press. Dr. John Behnken, president of the Lutheran church—Missouri synod, condemned the 379 clergymen's petition. The American Council of Christian churches, representing 1,500,000 church members, also condemned euthanasia in two resolutions.

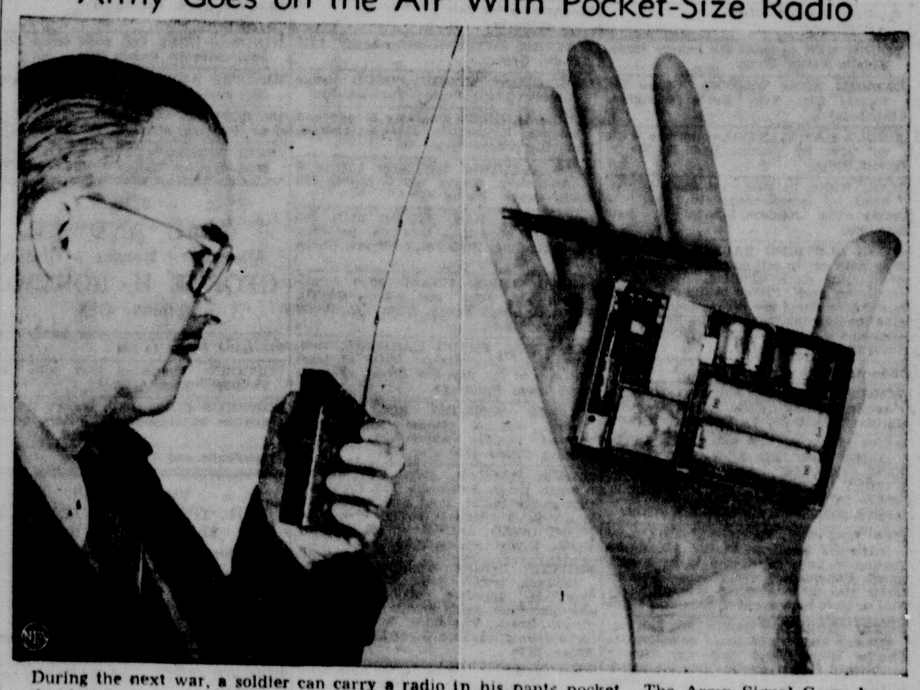
Passed Resolution Opposing

Four hundred members of a New York medical society recently passed a resolution opposing legalized euthanasia. It will be sent to all New York legislators.

The euthanasia society's aim is to have voluntary euthanasia legalized in all states, but it is currently concentrating activities in New York. The concept is illegal in every state at present.

The society has drafted a bill which provides that any sane person over 21, who is suffering severe physical pain from a disease for which present medicine knows no cure, may send a written petition for death to a court of record. It must be accompanied by his physician's affidavit. The case would be examined by a commission, including at least two doctors. If its report favored euthanasia, the court would grant the petition. Death then could be administered by the physician or any other person chosen by the patient or commission. The bill has not yet been presented to any lawmaking body.

Army Goes on the Air With Pocket-Size Radio



During the next war, a soldier can carry a radio in his pants pocket. The Army Signal Corps has developed a pocket-sized transmitter-receiver, believed to be the only radio its size that contains all necessary component parts. By simply inserting a detachable aerial, the user, left, can send and receive spoken messages over distances greater than 200 yards. The radio and collapsed aerial fit into a man's hand, right. The 11-ounce set features plug-in units which can be pulled out and replaced like fuses.

No New Leadership Will Help Peace Chances

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign News Analyst

A Florida reader of this column asks whether a change in the supreme leadership of Soviet Russia might improve the chances of world peace. My correspondent presumably has in mind a substitute for Marshal Stalin as head of the Communist regime.

The answer, from my viewpoint, is definitely "No."

Of course there will have to be a change of leadership in due course on the basis that Stalin isn't immortal. Recognition of this is seen in the current speculation about the possibility that Vyacheslav Molotov is even now being groomed to take over some or all of the Marshal's duties.

However, no new leadership is going to better the chances of peace. As a matter of fact peace likely is safer in Stalin's hands than it would be in any others.

Want To Avoid War

Why? Well, because Moscow obviously wants to avoid another world war right away and Stalin, as the most powerful figure in Russia, is most capable of keeping the lid clamped on. At least he is the most capable so long as his health and age permit.

My viewpoint is based on this fact: The Red goal is defined and immutable. Communism has declared itself for world revolution to overthrow all other forms of government.

Communist leaders may come and they may go, but the Red creed will not change so long as the ism lives. The creed demands that the revolution be pushed as hard as feasible. Of course there will be changes in tactics as circumstances change, but the basic policy won't change.

Policy of Leaders

That policy represents the beliefs of Lenin, Stalin and all the other leaders of Bolshevism. You might as well talk about altering the fundamental principles of a religion.

Under Stalin's leadership the world revolution has been pushed to the extreme limit. Indeed under any less astute guidance the pot might have boiled over long before this.

Secretary of the Army Royall today summed up the situation in his annual report for the department. He called Russia's blockade of Berlin a "day to day threat to the peace of the world." He said that "from the beginning of the blockade and up to the present time the situation in Berlin has been tense."

Cause Confusion

"It has been apparent," Royall said at another point, "that the Soviet authorities have had no intention of respecting past agreements or of composing the growing differences. On the contrary, it has been their manifest purpose to cause all possible confusion and conflict short of war, in an effort to drive us from Berlin and diminish American influence in Europe and in the world. . . . The future of the Berlin situation—just as the future of other situations involving the Soviet Union—is hard to prophesy. . . .

"We cannot and will not surrender our rights and principles. We will continue to do everything possible to avoid war."

Might Weaken Peace Chances

You will note that Secretary Royall says it has been the "manifest purpose" of the Soviet authorities "to cause all possible confusion and conflict short of war . . ." Who decides what tactics are "short of war"?

Perhaps they may be decided by the powerful politboro comprising the chief Soviet leaders. However, the "governor" on that machine is Stalin. His word is law. Upon him more than on any other man or group of men depends the judgment of what is "short of war."

So this column concludes that finding a substitute for Stalin not only isn't going to better the chances of peace but might weaken them."

Divorce Is Granted

A divorce was granted in circuit court Friday afternoon to Bobbie G. Nease from Dixie Jo Nease. General indignities were alleged. The defendant was given restoration of her maiden name, Dixie Joe Snyder.

Considerable Progress Made In Treament of Running Ears

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The usual cause of running ears is a chronic infection in what is called the middle ear,—a small cavity which lies back of the drum membrane and which connects by a small tube with the nose. In an infection in the nose, such as a severe cold, the germs pass up this tube, called the eustachian tube, into the middle ear. The eustachian tube is likely to be blocked up, pus forms in the middle ear under pressure and the drum membrane is broken, so that the pus is discharged into the outer part of the ear.

The symptoms vary to some extent, though the discharge is the most constant. If the secretions become stagnant there may be on unpleasant odor. If drainage is interfered with while infection is still present, pain can spread to the surrounding tissues, and fever may also be present. People who have this chronic infection are particularly susceptible to complications from colds. After a time the hearing can be somewhat impaired.

Treatment Disappoints

The treatment of a long-lasting chronic middle ear infection frequently has been disappointing. However, in recent years considerable progress has been made in the use of local applications and in surgical management. Even when it seems to be entirely checked and the discharge gone, a new cold may bring back the condition all over again. Cleanliness, including the removal of crusts and obstructions to drainage, is especially important. This is done by applying solutions, or "drops." Suction has been used to clean out the middle ear of pus and mucus. Alcohol treatments, silver nitrate, special dressings, antiseptics, and a kind of electrical treatment, called zinc ionization, have all been tried and are useful for some. Removal of lymphoid tissue in the back of the nose with locally applied radium may be helpful, especially in children.

In recent years there have been great improvements in surgical methods which make it possible to get at the source of the infection. Those patients who cannot be cured by other means may be relieved by this operation.

Question: Is it possible for a woman to become pregnant if the womb is misplaced backward?

Answer: Yes. Although it is somewhat less likely than when the womb is in its normal position.

He Imitates Jolson Well

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—A print of every picture Al Jolson ever made reposes in the vaults at Columbia studios, but some have been run so often that three and even four copies have been necessary.

When Larry Parks was signed to impersonate the Broadway musical comedy star in "The Jolson Story," he ran the prints scores of times to perfect himself in Jolson's mannerisms. In a similar manner he refreshed his knowledge when assigned to "Jolson Sings Again," now in production. Larry has so completely mastered Jolson's gestures and attitudes that the comedian himself claims he can scarcely tell whether it is Parks or Jolson on the screen.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT
Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Girl Scout Birthday

MARCH 12TH

1912 1949

The Sedalia Girl Scout Council is wishing a Happy Birthday Week to all the Girl Scouts and adult members of the organization. As we celebrate this 37th anniversary of Girl Scouting 1912-1949, our National President, Mrs. C. Vaughan Ferguson, sends this greeting: "A Happy Birthday to all Girl Scouts. As I look ahead into 1949 I have three wishes. One is that every Girl Scout will have the opportunity to go camping this summer. Second, I wish that more young women would realize the splendid opportunity that professional Girl Scouting offers to them as a career. Last, I wish for no more "waiting lists"—so that every girl who wants to may join a troop."

Come Along With Us is the 1949 theme, for all Girl Scouts. It is fun to be a Girl Scout and we are in need of more adults to help with our program, to provide more and better Scouting to more girls. All Girl Scouts and all adults were invited to participate in the birthday celebration at the Elks Club Saturday afternoon.

"Belonging" expresses the fun and fellowship of being a Girl Scout and registered in a National Organization.

In addition to the general birthday party Saturday afternoon, several troops entertained this week with Juliette Low World Friendship parties in their own troop.

Troop 4, Smith Cotton, Mrs. John Zulalf and Mrs. F. A. Kueck, leaders, entertained with a dinner party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Zulauf. A cake, decorated in Girl Scout colors served as the centerpiece. The Juliette Low representative, Peggy Shull, explained the use of the World Friendship Fund. Troop committee members enjoying the evening with the troop were: Mrs. D. W. Scotten, Mrs. Howard Edwards and Mr. Robert Dale. Eleanor Wolfel, troop president, conducted the business meeting, during which plans were discussed to complete the basic requirements for the Senior Service Scout program.

The Juliette Low patrol of Troop 24, St. Patrick's school, met at the home of Alphonsine Miles, patrol leader, Wednesday afternoon to complete plans for their Juliette Low party which was held Thursday afternoon in the school hall. After the business meeting, Beverly Hoff, Juliette Low representative, reviewed the life of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting in the U. S. A. A "mock" birthday cake centered the table and the troop members with their guests, a total of twenty-seven, walked around the Birthday cake singing "Here we go around the Birthday Cake," to the tune of here we go around the Mulberry Bush, and depositing their pennies in the cake at the same time. After several games and songs, refreshments of individual gold and green cakes decorated with a green birthday candle, were served. Members of the patrol acting as hostess were: Beverly Hoff, Genie Fischer, Alphonsine Miles and Josephine White. Sisters of St. Joseph, who staff the school were special guests.

Troop leaders are: Mrs. G. C. Moreau, Mrs. John T. White, Mrs. M. A. Moser and Miss Lillian Bahner. Mrs. Al Miles is organization chairman for the Girl Scout troops at St. Patrick's school.

Brownie troop 68, Whittier school, second grade girls with their leader, Mrs. John L. Bowman, entertained Brownie troop 54, recently, and presented a short skit, and one of the members sang Buttons and Bows. The visiting troop reciprocated with a Folk-Dance and sang a Girl Scout Song, Lavender is Blue. Mrs. H. R. Goodpasture and Mrs. Leon Wells are leaders of troop 54.

Troop 32, Washington school, held a business meeting Wednesday afternoon, with Harriett Schmitt, president in charge. All troop members were present and had as aguest Betty Rose Inman. Mrs. Harold Norton is troop leader.

Please see the Girl Scout crafts on display in the down town store windows. We are sure you will find these displays of the handwork of the Girl Scouts very interesting.

Dinner Given To Auto Board

Five New Members Placed on The Group in Sedalia

The Auto Club of Missouri held a dinner meeting at the Bothwell hotel Friday evening for the Sedalia members of the advisory board and their wives. Ray Lippard, local manager, presided.

J. L. Mahl, outstate supervisor, gave a brief address on the civic values of the club work along the lines of School Boy Patrols, Driver Training courses, and legal matters pertaining to safety and economy of motor car operation.

In a discussion period following the speeches Mr. Lippard brought out that Sedalia didn't have in its high school a course which would teach its students how to drive. The outlying cities around Sedalia have in their schools the dual-control cars, he stated, presented to them by the A. A. A., so why should Sedalia be without this training program, he queried.

New Board Members

Five new members were welcomed on the board. They are George H. Scruton, H. R. Harris, Guy Bailey, Z. Lyle Brown, Otis W. Wiley.

In addition to the above and their wives were Mrs. Ray Lippard, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mathieson, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wilks, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Lamm, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Sparn, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Cannaday, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hedderich, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Mullaley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Silverman, Mrs. E. F. Yancey, W. L. Jackson and R. M. Johns.

Representing the Club service work were Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hamlin. From the Sedalia office were Mrs. Ida Logan, secretary, Miss Mable Colvin, assistant secretary, Mrs. Helen Linden, speciti sales representative, and her guest, Richard Goslin.

Major Handley Participated In Storm Aid

Sent to North Dakota After Helping In Nebraska

Major Patrick J. Handley, a former Sedalian who is now stationed with the 5th Army at Fort Riley, Kas., recently participated in "Operation Snowbound," the Army's blizzard relief project for the snow-bound northern and western states. Mrs. Handley and three of their four children, John, Margaret Ann and Nancy, live at 718 West Fourth street.

The Pierce County Tribune of Rugby, N. D., gave an account of the blizzard conditions of that area in its March 3 issue, and told of Major Handley's part in the operation in that district. It stated that five North Dakota counties were declared an emergency area on Wednesday, February 23, and that by the next day Army and Red Cross officials were getting under way, with bulldozers and Army "weasels" moving in to plow through the drifts. Major Handley's work in the operation was described as follows:

"By Friday Major Patrick J. Handley, engineer for this county, was meeting with the county commissioners in the morning to plan the method of attack. Handley explained that roughly the work would be in two stages, the first phase of which was the clearing of the highways (top priority, by common consent, Nos. 2, 3, 17); phase 2, main feeder roads as determined by the county commissioners, and the last state of phase two, also on priority established by the commissioners, opening of roads to farms and hay stacks.

Asked For Clearing Station

"Handley asked the commissioners to set up a clearing station within their districts and take charge of it themselves or appoint a representative. He also asked that the commissioners provide guides who know the local area to save time, equipment and wasteful backtracking. It was further suggested that the farmer who was being helped should also be on the job. As the equipment works around the clock, it has happened, Handley said, that the snow buckers would come to a farm house at night, couldn't get anybody up, and moved on. "We can't do much about helping anyone that won't help himself," Handley said. The commissioners agreed."

Major Handley had his headquarters in the office of the county agent, and was a member of a large staff of Army and civilian personnel working together to open the clogged roads on a priority basis. Their aid was given where it was most needed, and to all farmers who were willing to cooperate with the Army services.

Major Handley and two other officers had been working on Operation Snowbound on the previous Wednesday in Nebraska, and were ready to return to their base when orders came for them to proceed to Rugby and resume operations on February 25th. They are still working in the Rugby area.

Large Crowd at PTA Fiesta And Style Show

The second night of the Smith-Cotton Parent-Teacher Style Show and Fiesta held Friday night in the school auditorium drew even a larger crowd than the first with practically all seats taken.

Attractive Sedalia women and girls, men and boys and even little tots modeled the latest in spring attire for all ages from the second group of local stores.

Even the men enjoyed seeing the fashions and some attended the second night after seeing the first show. Some of the women modeled like real professionals and the men didn't do so bad either. The youngsters, of course, as always, came in for their share of admiration and one little boy put the real Easter touch to his new outfit by bringing along a real live bunny.

Plenty Of Merchandise

The Sedalia merchants proved Thursday and Friday nights that if Sedalians didn't join the Easter parade in up-to-the-minute styles it wasn't because the store didn't have them. The women's fashions, exceptionally beautiful and feminine this year, the men's fashions with real dash and color, the youngsters as bright and pretty as Easter eggs.

Models taking part in the Style Show Friday night were: Flower's, Miss Carolee Johnson, Miss Dorothy Ann Reed, Miss Donna Marie Robinson, Miss Winnie Graham, Miss Sue Harris, Miss Margaret Ann Wade, Miss Lois Scott and Miss Yvonne Bohon; Rosenthal's, Jack Blaylock, Nick Knutz, Miss Betty Brosch, Mrs. Donald Shelby, Miss Lenore Murphree, Jimmy Hausm, Judy Brosch and Sherry Stauffacher; Penney's, Gary Wahrenbrock, Jimmy Friedebach, Charlene Maness, Miss Shirley Jean Williams, Miss Erma Lee Wear, Mrs. William Dougherty, Mrs. Rufus Rodgers, Mrs. Raymond Roberts, Mrs. Ellis Moore, Jr., Miss Jane Mickens, and Miss Peggy Ellis; Jiedel Vogue Shop, Miss Trudy Kraus, Miss Maxine Hatfield, Miss Mary Albertson, Miss Juliann Meyer, Miss Frances Rice, Mrs. Dorothy Whittaker and Miss Shirley Brownfield; Lockett's, Joan Merriott, Charla Edwards, Dorothy Connell, Patty Howard, Bobby Sullivan, Mary Jo Weller, Judy Kinder and Jeff Lockett; Mitzi Shop, Mrs. Jack Kreisler, Mrs. Helen Bernard, Miss Wanda Smith and Mrs. A. W. Haller and Wilson's Clothing company, John Handley and Donnie Wymer.

Mumps Interferred

The Style Show would have gone off without a hitch if it hadn't been for one thing—the mumps. Several young models were unable to take part in the show because they had the mumps.

The Fiesta which was put on by the Smith-Cotton high school students' and the pupils of the Harper's Dancing School were highly appreciated by the audience, too, who gave them a great deal of applause.

Mrs. L. C. Kennon was in charge of the show assisted by Mrs. A. J. Gregory and J. T. Alexander.

Birmingham Builds New Atom Smasher

BIRMINGHAM, England — (AP) —Birmingham university is building a new type of atom splitting machine. It is called the synchrotron. It is similar to the powerful new atom smasher unveiled recently at the University of California.

The British version of the synchrotron will weigh approximately 1,000 tons and develop energies of 1,000 million volts. The cyclotron now in use at the university develops voltages between 40 and 50 million volts.

Prof. Marcus L. Oliphant, director of the physics department and one of Britain's leading atom specialists, designed the Birmingham machine. Prof. Oliphant worked in the United States for two years on the "Manhattan" atom project and is in regular contact with American scientists.

U. S. Fears France May Be The Weak Link in Atom Bomb Secrecy

Currie's 'Patriotic' Statement Was Written by Reds, Cleared by Moscow

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Government authorities are worried that France may be the weak link in the chain of secrecy surrounding the atomic bomb.

Their concern has just been intensified by the startling disclosure that the purportedly patriotic statement by Prof. Frederic Joliot-Curie, head of French atomic research, was prepared by the French Communist Politburo and cleared by Moscow. Curie is a member of the Communist party.

This disclosure was made by Maurice Thorez, chief of the French Communists, in a recent closed meeting of party editors.

Fderecic Joliot-Curie: He made a better defense for U.S.S.R.

Defending his patriotism in a speech before the Anglo-American Press Association in Paris, Professor Curie had asserted. "French Communists entrusted with such secrets as the atomic bomb by their country will never betray them to a foreign power."

Word has just reached me from a reliable source in France that the following exchange occurred a few days later at the secret meeting of Red editors:

The editor of Ce Soir inquired: "How can a Communist make such a statement?"

Thorez replied: "You must admit that to say what Comrade Curie said at this time is a better defense of the interests of the Soviet Union than any other statement he could have made. Besides, the statement was prepared by the Politburo and cleared with Moscow!"

Subsequently Thorez joined other Communist leaders in a public confession of first allegiance to Russia in the event of war. Such statements are, in the opinion of close students of the Soviets, a reflection of growing concern over the move for a Western alliance.

It is believed that the Russians hope by these statements of their leaders to intimidate the people of Europe into believing that there will soon be a war in which they will be compelled to choose between Russia and the United States. This plays on the fear of war which is in every European heart and is intended to make the electorate of the Western nations fearful that in welcoming United States aid they hasten a showdown with the soviets.

Hal Boyle Says

By Hal Boyle

NORTH MIAMI, Fla., March 11. —(AP)—It doesn't hurt to be eaten alive.

By a tiger, that is.

"No, there is no pain," said Capt. Roman Proske, noted wild animal trainer. He should know. He's been clawed, pawed and hurriedly chewed by a dozen different tigers in his 3 years in the ring.

"All you remember is the big face coming at you with the mouth wide open, the claws wide stretched," he said.

"You have time only to throw up your arm—and then he has you, and you are on the ground. The whip, the gun—if you carry a gun—they are useless.

"You are helpless. You go powerless all at once.

"You try to hit the tiger. But your hand—it is like a powder-puff. All you can think of it 'I am finished—this is the end.' But there is no pain. The shock is too great."

Bitten Through Hand

At various times Prospe has been bitten through the hand, thigh, shoulder, side, and legs—bitten clear through. One of his favorite tigers attacked and nearly killed him last May. She tore the muscles of one leg so badly doctors told him he would never perform again.

But in five weeks he was back in the ring—with the same tiger, and five others. He still limps.

"They say I shouldn't put any weight on that leg," he said, and then shrugged.

"Wild animals have been my life. It is only reasonable that they should be my death, too."

No Desire To Die

Not that Proske has any desire to die. Tigers have been just the spice of his life. And he wants to keep it that way. A life without tigers would be as monotonous to him as a salt-free meal to a fat man.

What interests Proske most about being chewed on by his tigers is the psychology of the situation. He told me about it as we stood by a cage on his tiger farm here.

"Man thinks of himself as the big being," he said. "He feels there is an invisible glass wall between himself and the animals, because he is an egotist.

"This is just a big bluff. In training wild animals your control of them—it is all in being erect in using the big voice.

"And there comes a moment when a man knows he is not in command. The tiger feels it, too, when the man's voice gets smaller. So the tiger springs.

"It is then the glass wall crumbles. It is then you know that this invisible wall between man and animal is a bluff.

"You don't feel like a hero, lying there on the floor in your own blood and shivering from shock. You just feel silly, shrunken to nobody."

As Proske talked, Majana, the tiger that attacked him last spring, looked up and yawned—showing teeth like tent stakes. Majana has a problem now that intrigues her even more than adding Proske to her diet. She is about to bring a couple of bouncing baby tigers into the world.

I was still unconvinced that being eaten alive by a tiger could be painless. I have been partly eaten alive by mosquitoes, and bitten by a mouse, a cat, a squirrel, a dog and a dumb bunny I used to go to kindergarten with. Every time it hurt—hurt hard, too.

"With a tiger it is different," laughed Proske. "He hits you so hard you are paralyzed from the shock. There is no pain. I give you my word."

Then he frowned and began rubbing his hand—the hand that Majana bit through before she switched to his leg.

"What's the matter, captain?"

"My scars," said Proske. "They hurt when I talk about it."

Majana looked up and yawned. And Proske looked down into that red furnace. His eyes met the eyes of the maternal tiger. And there was no ill will between them.

Iron Horse's Recipe For Mooseburgers Makes Moose Respect Alaska Railroad

Having learned about the iron horse and mooseburgers, this herd of moose heads for the snowbank in Susitna Valley as a snowplow, from which picture was taken, approaches on the Alaska Railroad Tracks are hidden by a new snowfall which the plow is clearing

By NEA Service

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—(NEA)—The large moose population of the Susitna Valley is showing more respect for the "iron horse" these days, a change in attitude probably due to the fact that many of them were ending up as mooseburgers in mess halls of Alaska native schools.

An official of the government-owned Alaska Railroad observed the improved relationship on a recent trip through "Moose Alley," as the valley 45 miles north of here has been dubbed.

The moose, he reported, still take to the track to escape attack by wolves in the fire-foot snow which blankets the region, but they appear to have abandoned the delaying tactics which had the line snarled for several weeks.

Despite the screams of locomotive whistles, the animals would amble down the rails oblivous to schedules. Trains were often delayed as much as an hour and a half.

Casualties in this "invasion of the "right-of-way" were fairly high. Many moose were "bumped off" by engines plowing through the darkness of the long winter nights. More than one massive bull went down as it charged the snorting iron horse in a fit of rage.

After each engagement the carcass was dressed and quartered, then shipped here for distribution to native schools.

The word got around in moose circles. Now, as soon as the train comes into sight, they scamper off.

But whether or not the moose have learned a lesson they will remember is subject to debate. Old-timers on the road have their doubts.

It was a little more than a year ago, they recall, that the Alaska Railroad acquired its first streamliner. The boys were pretty proud of the shining blue and gold train, which was christened the "Aurora."

The pride of the line didn't keep its elegant monicker very long. After a trip to Fairbanks, during which it was slowed down to a walk by moose on the track, it was re-christened by Alaska's sourdoughs.

It was a bitter pill to Col. John P. Johnson, the road's general manager, when the Railbelt region mirthfully accepted the new destination—"The Moose-Pusher."

Police Car, Ambulance Stir Up Business

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—A traffic accident might bring a police car, a sheriff's car and an ambulance to the scene.

But the case was reversed here recently: a police car, a sheriff's car and an ambulance brought the accident.

The police car and the ambulance collided, the ambulance spun into the sheriff's patrol car which rammed a parked taxicab, without serious consequences.

The drivers of the police car and ambulance were fined for reckless driving.

Reds End 'Peace Offensive,' Get Tough Again

By Leon Dennen
NEA Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Russian "peace offensive" is over; Moscow is warning the West that we can expect her to use all means short of war to prevent the success of the Atlantic pact.

That is the grim significance some of the best informed sources on Russia see in the reshuffle of the Soviet top command. Admittedly nobody in Washington has a pipeline to the Kremlin, but this analysis is bases on the best available knowledge of Russian leaders and policies.

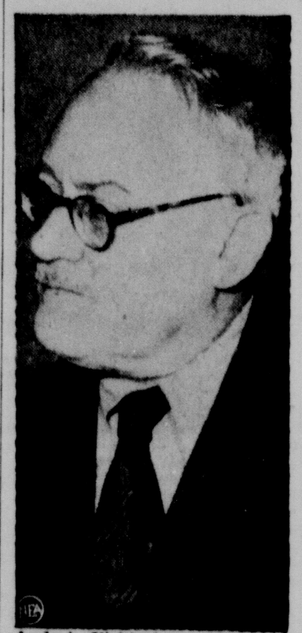
This is why these observers believe that Russia's "soft" policy of the past several months will soon harden:

1. Andrei Vishinsky, the embodiment of an aggressive policy against the West, has been taken off the shelf. He was sent into temporary retirement at a Czechoslovakian resort while the Kremlin experimented with "peace" tactics — abandonment of the French and Italian strikes. Premier Stalin's statement to Correspondent Kingsbury Smith, moderate tactics in the United Nations instead of the ranting of Vishinsky.

2. Anastas Mikoyan, reputed one of the "moderates" in the Politburo, was fired from the office of Minister of Foreign Trade.

3. The Atlantic pact has succeeded beyond Russia's most pessimistic expectations. Europe's industry, strengthened by the Marshall Plan infusion of dollars, is recovering at a fast clip.

4. Even the recent tactic of having Commie leaders in Western countries assert they'd fight for Russia in a capitalistic war failed to frighten Europeans into expectation that they'd soon see the Red Army marching across their borders.



Andrei Vishinsky: Mr. "Get Tough" has been taken off shelf.

And don't think that Vyacheslav Molotov is through. The fact that he relinquished his post as foreign minister to Vishinsky is hardly an indication that he has lost favor with Stalin, his life-long friend and fellow conspirator. His true role will develop in time, but for the present it is seen as especially significant that Molotov's protege, Andrei Gromyko, has been named deputy foreign minister.

Gromyko reportedly is a sworn enemy of Vishinsky. This appointment is seen here as another evidence of what Leon Trotsky dubbed Stalin's "zig-zag policies." To maintain the balance of power, the aged and ailing dictator may be maneuvering between the various forces of the Politboro.

Should Vishinsky's "get tough" policy fail, Gromyko would be ready to succeed him as Stalin's policy "zagged."

The immediate effect of the changes just made is expected here to be a renewed wave of Communist-inspired strikes and sabotage against the Marshall Plan in France and Italy. Despite rumors of troop movements on the borders of Finland, it is doubted that Russia would risk war through armed intervention in Finland or Norway.

The office has received a letter from the Veterans Administration office, Downey, Ill., thanking the chapter for the recent contribution of lap-covers. There were made by the Volunteers of the Evangelical and Reformed church, and are being used for patients in the hospital.

Tuesday evening, March 15, the first session of a class in Red Cross First Aid will be held at the Fourth Street Methodist church. The participants will be the members of Harry Lambirth's Boy Scout Troop. The instructors will be W. E. Bruce and Basil Bruce.

Two contributions for the Red Cross Fund campaign have been received from Sedalians who are at the present time out of the state. They write that they are always interested in ARC, and particularly in the Pettis county chapter. This attitud eis one to be proud of, and it may be added here that the contributions are generous ones.

Flowers Can Get Elected to 'All-America' Title

By Henry L. Pree
Written for NEA Service

The new look for flowers in 1949 is most promising, judging by the mony splendid varieties offered by nurserymen and seedsmen. But keeping up with these many new varieties is a serious task and only the gardener with plenty of time and space, and a willingness to gamble can take a chance on planting the countless introductions described so beautifully in word and color. The gardener with limited means, when making his choice, should rely upon the recommendations of the All-America Flower Selections Committee, whose job it is to test and rate proposed varieties before their introduction.

To be assured of a place on the All-America Selections, a plant must first succeed in the majority of the committee's 40 trial gardeners scattered throughout the country. The plant must be distinctly different, superior, and must fill a desirable purpose before any of the resident judges or the five traveling judges consider it for an award. So strict are the rules that few flowers have been awarded the gold medal.

The three new flowers honored by All-America Selections for 1949 introduction are: Silver Medal Petunia, whose rich deep-salmon blooms start very early in spring, practically covering the vigorous plants with large single flowers until freezing weather. Silver Medal Petunia, aptly named since it did win the coveted silver medal, makes a compact bush about 18 inches high.

Indian Summer Hollyhock, while strictly a perennial, may be called an annual since it will bloom the first year from seeds started in early spring. Indian Summer, as its name implies, gives us an assortment of pleasing colors, particularly soft and dainty yellow, chamois and white, along with other pastel shades. The growth is strong and straight, with five feet or taller flowering stalks and luxuriant folliage. The individual double flowers are similar to very refined peonies. Indian Summer won the bronze medal.

Blue Star Morning Glory, awarded honorable mention, is a sport out of Clark's Early Heavenly Blue, the universal favorite flowering vine. It is a very light blue, with deeper midrib stripes to form a star, pleasing and attractive. Like its parent, it is a rampant grower and always covered with bloom. While not ss large as Heavenly Blue, it is another delightful color to add to the white Pearly Gates, red Scarlett O'Hara and the rich Heavenly Blue Morning glories.

Their beauty is one reason why the flowers shown here were honored as All-America Selections for 1949. Silver Medal Petunia, above, is a rich deep salmon, Indian Summer Hollyhock, center, blooms in the soft colors associated with its name. Blue Star Morning Glory, right, is light blue with deeper blue star-stripes.

Petunias comprise one of the most useful of annual flowers since they lend themselves for planting in window boxes, hanging gbaskets, vases, borders and rock gardens. Since its inception in 1933, All-America Selections have given more awards to petunias, 37 to be exact, than to any other flower. The garden would be incomplete without petunias and a splendid showing can be made with Silver Medal and other prize winners such as Salmon Supreme, Cream Star, Burgundy, Flaming Velvet, Blue Brocade, Pink Gem, and Victorious Orchid Beauty.

Though it never won awards I would not be without Snowstorm, the purest white petunia ever to grace our garden. Petunias are extremely free-blooming, producing well even under adverse soil ard weather conditions. While it is best to start plants from seed sown indoors six weeks before the usual outdoor planting season, seed may be sown directly outdoors when the soil becomes warm.

Hollyhocks are old garden favorites, excellent for the back of the border, for planting along the border, for planting along garage walls, and for planting against fences. Hollyhocks, if given a warm, sunny location, shelter from the wind, and freedom from crowding, will bloom from late spring until late summer. They thrive best in a rather rich, well-drained soil and unless seed is desired all faded blossoms with their stems should be removed quickly to assure the production of more and later blooms.

Morning glories while appreciating a rich soil will grow in most any soil provided it is located in full sunlight and plenty of water is available. Plants started indoors from seed will bloom quickly when transplanted outdoors. As they are tender plants, the gardener must wait until all danger of frost has passed before planting them in the garden.

Few garden plants introduced to American gardeners in the past few years become as popular as the group of roses known as Floribundas. These truly wonder roses were developed by crossing the hardier types of small-flowered polyanthas and the large-flowered, perfect-formed hybrid teas.

Aside from their extreme hardiness and strong resistance to disease and insects, their adaptability to many garden uses has accounted most for the popularity of Floribundas. Most varieties are bushy and dwarf in growth, seldom exceeding three feet in height, which makes them ideal for bedding or as a curbside or driveway hedge.

Constant colorful bloom from early spring to very late fall and their ability to thrive under most conditions make them useful as color accents with evergreens in a foundation planting, or planted in front of other shrubs, or any place where a spot of color is needed all summer.

America's bakeries turn out more than $100,000,000 worth of pies every year.

Robert Ryan, Madge Meredith and Randolph Scott engage in Some close-up gunplay to uphold law and order in "Trail Street," western action thriller which comes to the Liberty screen Sunday. The co-feature will be "Timber," a rugged north woods story starring Dan Dailey.

Straight from the files of the Los Angeles Police Department comes, "He Walked By Night," opening today at the Uptown Theatre, semi-documentary tale of a robber-murderer who terrorized the city for months. Broadway award winner Richard Basehart and Scott Brady are starred. Co-hit at the Uptown is, an Old Fashioned Girl with popular singer Gloria Jean.

Monday evening listening on KMBC is highlighted at 7 o'clock with the Guy Lombardo Show. Playing the "sweetest music this side of heaven," the Lombardo orchestra, twin pianos, and the famed Lombardo medley are outstanding treats. Arthur Godfrey as emcee, keeps things rolling at a brisk pace on his Talent Scouts program at 7:30 p. m., when four young artists vie for honors on the show. And, at 8 p. m. Radio Theatre presents outstanding stars in a full-hour's entertainment. Rosalind Russell and Lee Bowman will be tomorrow night's stars. At 9 p. m. that beautiful, lovable, but dumb My Friend Irma is heard on KMBC. Marie Wilson is in the title role, and her roommate Jane, and boyfriend Al add to the complications of this outstanding comedy program. We'll bet you will really enjoy this Monday night line-up of top shows.

Amos and Andy

Amos 'n Andy, blackfaced comedians heard at 6:30 each Sunday evening on KMBC are universal favorites, and probably one of the best known comedy teams on the air. When Andy and the Kingfish get into another one of their typical schemes, it generally is hilarious for the audience. We invite you to tune in each Sunday evening at 6:30.

James Melton will present an Irish program on Wednesday evening at 8:30 on KMBC. The Harvest of Stars orchestra and chorus will join in this pre-St. Patrick's day salute, and it's designed to your listening pleasure.

Sam Molen will be on hand Friday evening at 10:30 p. m. to bring listeners play-by-play of the first night of the NCAA Western Playoffs. And, on Saturday night, Sam's basketball broadcast will be heard at 11 p. m., with the final game of the series.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock Van Johnson will assume the star's spotlight in the leading role on the Family Hour of Stars. Johnson will star in the comedy, "Pink Peril," about a new father in the confused state of thinking his new heir is a boy.

At 10:30 this coming Saturday evening, you'll hear the Spike Jones Show. The program has moved to a new time on KMBC, and Spike and the City Slickers, together with Professor Feetlebaum, will be on hand at 10:30 each Saturday night. We hope you'll tune in.

With this partial listing of highlight programs, it's easy to see why KMBC is first in radio in the Heart of America.

Green Ridge

Mrs. Verna Palmer

The Green Ridge Rebekah lodge No. 830, held its annual anniversary dinner and party at the Bennett hall Monday night. It was the fourth anniversary of the founding of the Green Ridge lodge and four white angel food cakes on crystal stands, topped with four pink candles in green holders were placed on a long table covered with a white cloth.

The dinner was sponsored by the Past Noble Grands of the lodge and was served cafeteria style.

The members of the La Monte Rebekah lodge were guests. Mrs. Stewart Allen of Green Ridge was alo a guest.

Following the regular business meeting the La Monte Rebekahs entertained the Green Ridge lodge members with a radio program. They closed the program by singing "Happy Birthday" to the members. There were 42 members present, including the guests.

Mrs. True Ulmer, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Brownfield, was hostess to the members of the Home Builders Sunday school class of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon at her home in Green Ridge. The vice president, Mrs. Alva Lett presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles H. Ward.

During the course of the business meeting the class made its annual pledge to support the church.

Mrs. J. A. Gordon presented the devotional service by reading the twelfth chapter of Romans and an article, "How Is It With You?" by Frank R. Hunt, closing with a Lenten prayer.

The hostesses served pie a la mode and coffee.

The Green Ridge Junior Gardeners held their first regular meeting after school on Tuesday at the home of Miss Rosilea Stark. The meeting was called to order by the leader, Mrs. George Dowdy, of Circle I. The name of the Green Ridge Junior Gardeners was selected by the members. They chose for their flower the lily-of-the-valley and "In My Garden" for their theme song.

The April meeting of Circle I will be held at the home of Miss Mary Beth Anderson on the 8th. Circle No. II will meet at the home of Miss Rosilea Stark on April 1st.

Refreshments of cookies, candy and soft drinks were served by Miss Stark and her mother, Mrs. R. A. Stark to the following members: Misses Shirley Bullard, Betty Sue Ward, Drue Eckhoff, Charlene Fuzell, Jeanette Vannoy, Monna Kirschner, Beth Anderson, Jane Johnson, Elizabeth Titsworth, Shirley Williams, Betty Tucker, Jeannie Edgar, Louise Vannoy and Agnes Iwan.

Education Cost Is Going up

JEFFERSON CITY, March 10.—(AP)—The state board of education figures that if the state would contribute $10,000,000 and the local districts or counties would add $5,000,000 more Missouri would become an average state in aiding education.

Here's what the board said after a meeting yesterday:

The cost of education is climbing, the need for adequately trained teachers is rising and the number of teachers available is dropping.

The board suggested the state and county or district units provide more money in order to meet the national average to pay for education.

The report came from the board right after members agreed that Cape Girardeau county had offered the first acceptable reorganization plan. It would cut the county's 75 school districts to three consolidated districts.

Guards Watch British Food

LIVERPOOL, England — (AP) — The line of trucks rumbled along the five miles from dock to storehouse.

Trailing each was a sedon with two men inside watching, alert, part of a squad sent to the dockside.

They didn't let the trucks get out of their sight.

Detectives guarding a load of gold?

No, just ministry of food officials watching 100,000 cases of Russian tinned salmon, just off a ship, to see that black-market hijackers didn't get them.

In 1457 the Scotish parliament passed a law prohibiting golf on the ground that the sport was keeping men from their required archery.

A 1948 survey showed 51 per cent of American housewives still roll their own pie crust.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

© by Bob Wade and Bill Miller. Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: After their release from a gambling ranch cellar, where Mr. Barselou had held them prisoners, John Henry and Sin Conover return to Azure, Calif., just in time to be greeted by a newspaper extra announcing the murder of James Gayner, hotel clerk who was employed by Barselou and who had much to do with involving them in an earlier murder. The Conovers decide they'll seek Mr. Trim, representative of a quiz show sponsor who is looking after them, in hopes he can tell them what to do.

* * *

"THIS is about the right spot," John Henry said. The Tomahawk neon sign flashed in back of them up the highway. "I said about a hundred yards past the drive-in."

"Why couldn't we have waited for Mr. Trim back there?" Sin complained through the last mouthful of her hamburger.

"That newspaper," said John Henry briefly.

"Are you sure it's safe here?" Sin asked anxiously, trying to watch all the dark clumps of shadow at once.

John Henry thumbed toward a cluster of sagebrush which bulked beside the road. "Sure. We can hide back there till Trim gets here. I hope he has some ideas."

"Way back there?"

"I'll be with you."

Finally, Sin settled herself dubiously on a large flat rock behind the bushes. "I hope he hurries."

"I think he will. He sounded pretty excited when I talked to him." He cleared off the earth painstakingly and sat down.

"Johnny—"

"Uh-huh?"

"What was he so excited about? I mean, he doesn't have a close personal interest in us. And if we were what the papers say we are, why, it's going to make the Bry-Ter Company look pretty foolish, much less their representative sort of shielding us."

"Sin," said John Henry after a pause, "don't think I'm second guessing. But I was onto this same idea back in the cellar before that crazy Jordan girl leaped in and scared it out of me."

"Oh, it's just not possible, Johnny. I mean, how could he—"

* * *

"HOW could anybody? I don't know. But we're pretty sure this Jones person killed Anglin last night, aren't we?"

"Yes," Sin faltered. "And it must have been Jones who killed Gayner in our cottage."

"I suppose. Gayner would have no way of knowing we'd give the combination to Barselou. So I guess he went on looking for it. And found it, too, since the pencil was by his body. And Jones surprised him and stabbed him and got it instead."

"Well, why not?" demanded John Henry. "It's got to be somebody."

"But not Mr. Trim. He's such a nice little fellow. And just this morning he saved me from those two—"

"By gosh, it could all be part of an act." John Henry's voice took on a hard shell of excitement. "I think we've got something here, Sin. Who was it popped up right after Anglin stumbled into our cottage?"

"Well, he did know pretty much what went on with Barselou, remember—"

"And he was the one who said it was all right to move our clothes—"

"And, Johnny, if Mr. Trim thought we had the combination, of course he'd want to rescue me from Vernon and Gayner!"

"Honey," cried John Henry, his tone congratulatory, "for the first time, I think we're on the right track."

Sin shrieked and put her hands over her mouth. Her husband leaped to his feet, but there was no new menace in sight. Sin rocked back and forth in alarm. "Johnny, I just thought—he's coming out here now. He's got the combination and he knows we'll guess eventually. He's coming out to kill us!"

"Good grief! I never thought of that." John Henry squatted behind the mesquite and beat one fist on his knee, trying to make a semblance of an idea take sensible shape. At last it did.

* * *

"FOR once this week-end, we're ahead of the game, Sin. Look. You wait at the edge of the road for Trim to drive up. Nothing'll happen to you because he'll want us both. As soon as he's out of the car, I'll jump him. I'll be in the bushes—"

"I don't know, Johnny—"

"Why not? I'm a good 50 pounds heavier."

"But honey," Sin reasoned, "what if we're wrong about him? What if he turns out to be just a nice little man and nothing else?"

John Henry stood up and stretched. He felt better now that there was actually something he could do of his own volition. "Baby, that's a chance we have to take. We'll find out darn soon. From the story in the paper, it's obvious Jones got the combination."

"But—"

"And if Trim is Jones, he's not letting that slip of paper get out of his hands. He'll have it on him somewhere. So we'll search him for the answer." He checked. A sedan was coming slowly down the road from the direction of The Tomahawk. The driver was flicking his lights from high to low beam at regular intervals.

"Johnny, I'm scared!" Sin jumped up and put her arms around her husband.

"That's him, all right. Now don't be scared, Sin. Just do what I say and we'll be okay. Come on, now—show me what a brave girl you are."

"But I'm not a brave girl," Sin whimpered. "I'm scared!"

John Henry shoved her hastily through the mesquite toward the road. The automobile was almost upon them. It was slowing down. Tires bumped in the rough ground at the side of the highway.

"Is that you, Mrs. Conover?" Trim's high-pitched voice called.

"I guess so," Sin quavered.

SOVIET FAILURES MAY HERALD NEW POLICY: This map highlights Russia's failures and troubles, which have pyramided so rapidly that the Soviets may feel the need for new strategy. Some observers think the recent cabinet shakeup in Moscow may be the start of a new program designed to consolidate Soviet gains in eastern Europe, rather than expand its orbit of influence.

Camera News

By Irving Desfor

All right, class, what's xerography? How about udtrafax—where does it fit into the photo picture? Are you likely to get a "Land" camera? Or a rocket cameda? Would you like your pictures done in glass? Could you do a lifetime of picture printing on only ten gallons of water?

As fellow members of the freshman class of '49, let's pause now and take stock of the bewildering progress in which photography figured in 1948. We'll find the answers to the above questions, and many others, by scanning some of the highlights in the phto field of the past year.

First, the brand new word, xerography. It's a revolutionary process for rephotographing and printing line drawings mostly, without the use of emulsions, chemicals, water or ink. Instead, it makes use of statis electricity and a dry powder to reproduce pictures, letters or documents in a matter of seconds. The Haloid Co. of Rochester, N. Y., is the proud poppa of this process, which seems destined for a spreading career in industrial use. But it won't replace home photography for a long time, so the missus will continue to complain of chemicals slopping up the house.

ROCKET CAMERA converted from an aerial sequence K-25. You supply your own V-2 rocket.

Next we have ultrafax, which also deals with graphic material like letters, drawings, documents and maps. By a combination of high speed photography and television, these are reproduced at an incredible rate. For instance, at the RCA demonstration in Washington, D. C., recently, the entire text of the novel, "Gone With the Wind"—475,000 words on 1,047 pages—was the guinea pig. It took two minutes and twenty-one seconds to flash it across the city by television, page by page, and reproduce it by high speed photography.

As for me, I'll take my reading in slower doses, thank you. But the experts predict its future might change the communications field, and possibly, national movie film distribution methods.

Then there's the camera invented by Dr. Edwin Land of the Polaroid Co. This takes a photo and in one minute the finished picture print can be removed from the back. This will appeal to the drug store amateurs who never save negatives, never make enlargements, don't like dark room work and who can't wait to see how the picture came out.

If you like pictures of real estate on a grand scale—say about 800,000 square miles—then a rocket camera is a must for you. After seeing pictures recently released by the Navy which showed a good portion of the western United States in one hunk, I'll stick to close ups of the back porch and such. What do I care about showing the curvature of the earth? Getting 70 miles up in a rocket to do it would give me curvature of the spine . . . or worse.

What did intrigue me was an announcement by Corning that they could make a portrait in glass that would never fade, discolor, wrinkle or grow dim. Mind you, this isn't under glass or on glass . . . it is in the glass.

One thing holds me back. They didn't say it couldn't be broken!

That water deal is interesting, and was developed during the war by Dr. H. P. Gregor of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute for the U. S. Army Signal Corps.. He found a special resin which purified the water of all photographed chemicals. Thus a storage tank holding ten gallons of water would go through the process of washing photo prints, then through special columns containing the resin, then back again to the original tank.

A vicious circle for the water—but ever so pure.

At the average rate of four passengers per trip, all the 9,306,000 people in Illinois and Michigan could be carried in eight hours by the 115,000 passenger elevators in theh United States, it is estimated by the Otis Elevator company.

The American crocodile, while more vicious than the alligator, exhibits no hostility to man. It was first discovered in the United States in 1876, but wos known before that in Mexico, the West Indies and as far south as Ecuador.

Animals which have been domesticated since the dawn of history include the dog, ox, sheep, goat, horse, camel, cat, goose and elephant. No animal of economic importance has been brought into domestication within the past 2,000 years.
